

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The present study would have not been possible without constant encouragement, generous help and guidance of my guide, a great scholar Prof. Dipti J. Oza, Faculty of Education and Psychology, the Maharaja Sayajirao University of Baroda and present professor in Education, CASE, the Maharaja Sayajirao University of Baroda. Well, known for his scholarly lectures, Prof. Dipti J. Oza is a person whose motto of life is to learn, unlearn and relearn. Her strong faith and truth in me helped me to raise my self esteem. I express my deep gratitude for her keen interest, kindness, love, moral boosting, timely support, generous open discussion coupled with her friendly approach throughout the period of my research work. Her constant encouragement and advice at different stages at my convenience brought the work to its completion.

Special thanks to all the Tibetan vocational centres for helping me in statistical data analysis. I extend my heartiest thanks to all the Trainers, Supervisors, Principals, Parents, Trainees and each associate member for their support and co-operation. Special words of gratitude to Central Tibetan Administration, Dharamshala for helping me financially. I thank Ms. Aarti Goswami for helping me without expecting anything in return except my friendship. Without their contribution it would have not been possible to conduct this research.

A special mention of my loving family'- My parents, Tashi Gyamtso and Mendral Sangmo, were the real source of inspiration throughout my academic career. My Godfather Rene Basler supported me throughout my life. My elder sister Rinchen Palmo and my brother Pema Namgyal provided me with their unconditional love and support to complete this study on paper. I also thank all the anonymous contributors, whom I have missed in acknowledging their contributions.

Above all, I humbly remember and accept the blessings of His Holiness The 14th Dalai Lama and offer my prayers and glory to the supreme power bestowing me a chance to contribute in the field of knowledge.
