

LIST OF FIGURES

1. Ajanta Caves seen from the 'Viewpoint'
2. Ajanta caves during the monsoon season
3. The waterfall of Ajanta
4. Saptakunda (seven tanks) above the waterfall
5. Map of India showing rock-cut cave sites (source: Fergusson and Burgess 1880)
6. Map of western India: trade routes and centres of rock-cut architecture
7. Rock-cut caves of western India
8. Map of the Deccan, circa 250-550 CE
9. Map of the Vākāṭaka homelands
10. Map of the lands named in Varāhadeva's inscription in Ajanta Cave 16
11. A map of the lands named as Anantavarman's feudatories in Viśrūtaśarita, i.e. the eighth chapter of Daṇḍin's Daśakumāraśarita
12. General Plan of the Caves of Ajanta (source: Fergusson and Burgess 1880) comprising additional compass placed by R. K. Singh on the top left side pointing to the due north
13. Plan of Cave 1 (Fergusson and Burgess 1880)
14. Plan of Cave 2 (Fergusson and Burgess 1880)
15. Cave 1: longitudinal section (Burgess 1883)

16. Cave 2: cross section (Burgess 1883)
17. Plan of Cave 4 (Fergusson and Burgess 1880)
18. Plans of Caves Lower 6 and Upper 6 (Fergusson and Burgess 1880)
19. Longitudinal section of Caves Lower 6 and Upper 6 (Burgess 1883)
20. Plans of Cave 7. Below: Burgess (1883). Above: conjectural plan by Spink.
21. Plan of Cave 8 (Gill 1876)
22. Plan of Cave 8 (Jadhav 1987)
23. Left: Plans of Caves 9 and 10 (Fergusson and Burgess 1880)
24. Plans of caves 7, 11, 14, 13, 15, and 20 (Burgess 1883)
25. Left: Plan of Cave 11 (Burgess 1883); right: conjectural plan by Spink
26. Plans of Caves 12, 13, and 15A (Fergusson and Burgess 1880; Nagaraju 1981)
27. Plans of Caves 16 and 17 (Fergusson and Burgess 1880)
28. Longitudinal section of Cave 19 (Fergusson and Burgess 1880)
29. Cave 19: side view, plan, and transverse section of the stupa; the capitals; and a panel from the triforium (Burgess 1883)
30. Plans of caves 21, 23, 24, and 25 (Burgess 1883)
31. Plan of Cave 25 (Gill 1876).

32. Sketch plan of Cave 27, n.d. by Jadhav (AAA UM, University of Michigan)
33. Cave 26-complex: the plan of the stupa with relative dispositions of the various adjuncts (Spink's adaptation of plans by Burgess 1883)
34. Plan of Cave 26-complex with the four adjuncts. Spink's first conjectural reconstruction of the disposition of the various components. Here, Cave 27 is facing eastwards to the ravine (Spink 1981)
35. Plan of Cave 26-complex with the four adjuncts. Spink's second conjectural reconstruction of the disposition of the various components. Here, Cave 27 is facing northwards, in the direction of Cave 25 (Spink 2009, fig. 30)
36. Caves 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5 seen from the 'Viewpoint'
37. Cave 1, façade
38. Cave 1, porch colonnade
39. Cave 1, pillared vestibule on the left of the front court
40. Cave 1, interior colonnade of the maṇḍapa
41. Cave 1, shrine
42. Cave 2, porch
43. Caves 3, 4, 5, 6U, 6L, and 7 seen from the 'Viewpoint'
44. Cave 4, porch colonnade
45. Cave 4, porch
46. Cave 4 interior, front colonnade

47. Cave 4, interior ceiling
48. Cave 4, the shrine Buddha
49. Cave 4, shrine, pancavargiya-bhiksus and the donors as upāsakas
50. Cave 5 porch, right side
51. Cave 5: the staircase leading up to Cave 4
52. Cave 5, porch, uncut rock on right side
53. Cave 5, right of porch widened in c. 477 CE
54. Caves Lower 6 and Upper 6, front view
55. Cave 6: the extant remains of the flight of steps from the river bed
56. Caves Lower 6, Upper 6, and 7
57. Caves Lower 6 and Upper 6, tunnelled staircase
58. Cave Lower 6, porch
59. Cave Lower 6, porch area with main doorway
60. Cave Lower 6, main doorway
61. Cave Lower 6, main doorway: the elephant and yakṣas lifting the pillars
62. Cave Lower 6, remains of the tunnelled staircase
63. Cave Lower 6, close up of the tunnelled staircase
64. Cave L6, interior, front aisle with the staircase
65. Cave L6: constructed staircase for reaching the upper storey
66. Cave L6: the cracks, fissures, and crystal formations on the ceiling level

67. Cave L6: hall. It was originally planned without any pillar or shrine.
68. Cave L6, shrine doorjambs
69. Cave L6: the shrine Buddha does not depict the scene of the First Sermon
70. Cave L6, shrine doorway: double doors opened toward the interior
71. Cave L6, shrine doorway, oblong cubical monolith for door fittings
72. Cave L6, shrine painting, ceiling paintings
73. Cave Upper 6, viewed from Cave L6 porch
74. Cave U6: the seldom-noted yakṣa and nāga dvārapālas as flag bearers
75. Cave U6: the monolithic enclosure round the staircase coming up from the hall of the lower storey 76. Cave U6: the monolithic enclosure coming up from the hall of the lower storey
77. Cave U6, hall: the colonnade with the octagonal pillars with square bases
78. Cave U6: right aisle, the uncut floor area
79. Cave U6, interior side-shrine
80. Cave U6, the main Buddha shrine
81. Cave 7, facade: the double portico
82. Cave 7, lintel of a portico, yakṣa carrying a stupa
83. Cave 7, porch
84. Cave 7, porch: traces of paintings on the wall

85. Cave 7: the shrine with antechamber
86. Cave 7: the shrine antechamber
87. Cave 8: front view
88. Cave 8, interior, the electric generator machines (date of photograph: August 2013)
89. Cave 8, hall: the cave is used like a store room (date of photograph: August 2013) 90. Caves 9-10: the Sātavāhana-period caves (circa 2nd-1st
c. BCE)
91. Cave 9, facade
92. Cave 9, interior
93. Cave 10, interior
94. Cave 10, right outer surface of the great arch with the inscription by the son of Vaśiṣṭha
95. Cave 11, front view
96. Cave 11, view from the front court of Cave 12
97. Cave 11: the left outer cell
98. Cave 11, porch: view from right
99. Cave 11, porch: view from left
100. Cave 11, porch, proper left side: the monolithic enclosure between two pillars
101. Cave 11, porch, proper right: the monolithic enclosure between two pillars
102. Cave 11, porch, axial pillar bases

103. Cave 11, porch, proper left axial pillar base: the multiple tiers of mouldings on the sides of the adhiṣṭhāna
104. Cave 11, porch, proper right axial pillar base: the single pattern of flat moulding on the sides of the adhiṣṭhāna
105. Cave 11, porch, proper left side: monolithic bench between pillars
106. Cave 11, porch, proper left side: the raised floor level and the steps before the cells
107. Cave 11, śimha-dvāra: the lions
108. Cave 11, right porch window: round pillars
109. Cave 11, porch, left porch window: square pillars
110. Cave 11, pillared hall with shrine
111. Cave 11, pillars and floor-beams
112. Cave 11, interior pillar, adhiṣṭhāna
113. Cave 11, interior pillar, ghaṭapallava motif below the capital
114. Cave 11: the step before an interior cell doorway
115. Cave 11: the one before the next cell doorway is more skilfully done
116. Cave 11: the next cell doorway received an articulated design
117. Cave 11: later, the śāndraśilās were replaced by square steps

118. Cave 11: still later, no-step-at-all was the preferred rule at Ajanta
119. Cave 11: the shrine Buddha image is among the earliest; the throne was reworked
120. Cave 11, the shrine Buddha with stupa behind, and the double layers of paint work
121. Cave 12: this Sātavāhana-period upāśraya probably had a pillared porch.
122. Cave 12: the large hall has no pillars, as pillars were rare at the time.
123. Cave 12: the remains of the hall's front wall
124. Cave 13: a Sātavāhana-period upāśraya
125. Cave 14: front view
126. Cave 15 in the centre and Cave 15A on the left (re-discovered in 1952)
127. Cave 15: remains of the perished porch with the main doorway
128. From right to left: Caves 16, 17, and 18.
129. .Cave 16, gaja-dvāra
130. Cave 16 entrance, the Nāgendra shrine
131. Cave 16, porch
132. Cave 16, the main doorway
133. From right to left: caves 17, 18, 19, and 20
134. Cave 17, tunnelled entrance
135. Cave 17, porch
136. Cave 17, the main door

137. Cave 17, shrine
138. Cave 17, shrine, the left upāsaka figure (Ravisāmba?)
139. Cave 17, shrine: the right upāsaka figure (Upendragupta II?; the king of Ṛṣika)
140. Cave 18: pillared cistern chamber
141. Cave 19, front view
142. Cave 19, the facade with double pillared portico
143. Cave 19, the exterior of the prākāra
144. Cave 19, the 'intrusive' padmāsana Buddhas outside the toraṇa-dvāra
145. Cave 19, the nāga-dvārapāla
146. Cave 19, front court: the passage through the right outer shrine's right inner chamber
147. Cave 19, front court: the passage, another view
148. Cave 19, extant right pillar of the mostly perished
toraṇa-dvāra
149. Cave 19, the exterior of the toraṇa-dvāra
150. Cave 19, prākāra: the vertical column on the right is a part of the lost entrance gate.
151. Cave 19, the curvature of the facade wall
152. Cave 19, interior: nave with the stupa
153. Cave 19, the great śaitya arch seen from the interior
154. Cave 19, ceiling of the vault, view 1
155. Cave 19, ceiling of the vault, view 2
156. Cave 19, interior: left colonnade and triforium
157. Cave 19, interior: right colonnade and triforium

158. Cave 19, interior: the first pillar on the left
159. Cave 19, interior: the pillar capitals and the carved triforium
160. Cave 19, the right outer shrine
161. Cave 19, the right outer shrine: the Buddha panel
162. Cave 19, right outer shrine ceiling: the shrine was elaborately and lavishly painted
163. Cave 19, right outer shrine: the cell on the right wall
164. Cave 19, right outer shrine, right cell: Spink's B-mode door fitting
165. Cave 20
166. Cave 20: detail of the porch colonnade
167. Cave 20, porch ceiling with agrolithic patterns
168. Cave 20, shrine, shrine: the monolithic oblong cubical projection for the door fittings
169. From right to left: Caves 21, 22, and 23
170. Cave 21, facade: most of the pillars are cement reconstructions
171. Cave 21, porch
172. Cave 21, the left porch-end pillared vestibule with inner cells
173. Cave 23, façade with eaves
174. Cave 23: the hall
175. Cave 23, the shrine with antechamber
176. Cave 24, facade

177. From right to left: Cave 24, 25, and 26-complex. View from the court of Cave 24.
178. Cave 24, interior
179. The range of Indhyadri Ghats where the saṅghārāma of Ajanta have been excavated
180. The edifices patronised by monk Buddhahadra. (Three photos digitally merged; the actual face of the cliff is not as flat as seen here.)
181. Caves 24 to 28
182. From right to left: caves 25, 26, and 27
183. Cave 26-complex: the upper left wings
184. The left wings of Cave 26 temple: the pillared-vestibules-with-inner-cells on the western side of the perished porch
185. Cave 26-complex, left wings: the vertical line indicates the likely axes of the two storeys. The horizontal line indicates the expectant conjectural width of the hall of the upper floor (Cave 27).
186. Cave 27 (26-ULW), hall: extant portions of the rear (southern) wall in the background and the right (western) wall
187. Cave 27 (26-ULW), the right (western) wall with the shrine antechamber
188. Cave 27 (26-ULW), the cave's right (western) and front (northern) walls

189. Cave 27, the remains of the pillars of the porch-end vestibule
190. Cave 27: traces of ceiling paintings in the inner cell of the porch-end vestibule
191. Cave 25 (26-URW): front view
192. Caves 26 and 25: the nineteenth-century photograph by Robert Gill (courtesy of British Library, London)
193. Cave 25 (26-URW), a view of the front court
194. Cave 25 (26-URW): the ceiling of the front court shows a layer of the volcanic lava flow
195. Cave 25 (26-URW): front court showing the monolithic cubical platform on the floor
196. Cave 25, the left porch-end vestibule
197. Cave 25, detail of fig. 196 showing the hole in an inner cell of porch-end vestibule
198. Cave 26-complex, the cistern
199. Right to left: Caves 24, 25, and 26 with the right staircase for accessing Cave 25
200. Walter M. Spink examining the passage with the remains of the doorway leading to Cave 24 from the front court area of Cave 26
201. A loose yakṣa figure
202. Konḍāṇe caityagṛha
203. Cave 26-complex: Spink's conjectural reconstruction (courtesy of Spink. Line drawing: Ajeet Rao and Nitin Veturkar)

204. Cave 26, interior, left wall: Mahāparīnirvāṇa of the Buddha (3 photos digitally merged)
205. Cave 26-complex. View 1: conjectural 3D reconstruction. (Any imperfect or imprecise detailing here and in the subsequent 3D images is regretted. The aim is solely to indicate the dispositions of the various architectural units before the gradual damage.)
206. Cave 26-complex. View 2: conjectural 3D reconstruction.
207. Cave 26-complex. View 3: conjectural 3D reconstruction. The left wings are seen here. The upper floor is numbered 27, but the lower floor is not numbered.
208. Cave 27: conjectural 3D reconstruction of the extant remains; based on the ground plan by Yazdani (1952).
209. Cave 27, shrine antechamber: detail from fig. 208. Notice the remains of a step that belongs to the earlier cell doorway.
210. Ajanta Cave 19, woodcut, late nineteenth century.
211. Cave 19, a nineteenth-century photograph
212. Cave 26A: a newly rediscovered cave
213. Cave 26A: another view of the newly rediscovered cave.
214. Cave 29, front view
215. Ghaṭotkacha cave, view of the porch
216. Banoṭī: a rivulet on the way

217. Banoṭi: the plunge of the waterfall
218. Banoṭī: the researcher (R. K. Singh) at the site
219. Banoṭi: porch
220. Banoṭī, porch, left pillared chamber
221. Banoṭi: the shrine with pillared antechamber
222. Banoṭī: the shrine doorway
223. Banoṭī: the right-end pillared vestibule
224. Banoṭi: right pilaster on the porch showing a Naṭarāja image
225. Spink's time chart; source: Spink, Ajanta: History and Development, vol. 6 (Brill: 2012); drawing: N. Yaguchi.
226. Spink's classification of the four types of Ajanta cell door modes; source: Spink, Ajanta: History and Development, vol. 4 (Brill: 2005), fig. 36; drawing: N. Yaguchi.
227. Spink's 'Defining Features for the Vākāṭaka phase of Ajanta'; source: Spink, Ajanta: History and Development, vol. 4 (Brill: 2005), fig. 40.
228. Month calendar showing the sunrise angles at Jalgaon (60 km from Ajantā) in June. From 1 June to 30 June, the angle changes up to 2°. (Source: Time and Date.com, www.timeanddate.com/worldclock/astronomy.html?n=1664&month=6&year=2012&obj=sun&afl=-12&day=1; accessed on 25 January 2012)

229. Year calendar of 384 Śaka Era or 462 CE. Āṣāḍha māsa spanned from 19 May to 13 June of Julian Era. The month in red indicates the first month. Clicking on the month button of the calculator returns the calendar of that month in a new screen (fig. 230). (Source: L. Gislen & J. C. Eade, Suryasiddhanta HIC 1.0, computer application)
230. Month calendar of Āṣāḍha 384 Śaka Era. Clicking on 14 Āṣāḍha returns the calendar of that day in a new screen (fig. 231).
231. Day calendar of 14 Āṣāḍha showing the various divisions and units of the day relating to the coordinates of Ajantā (20.33N-75.41E). It shows the month-end of Āṣāḍha and beginning of Śrāvaṇa māsa. The hour of the end of pūrṇimā, (full moon) is also seen.
232. Moon phases from 461 to 463 CE. Note that 27 June 27, 462 CE is a pūrṇimā (full moon). (Source: 'Moon Phase Predictions by Fred Espenak, NASA/GSFC', NASA Eclipse Website, www.eclipse.gsfc.nasa.gov/phase/phase0401.html; accessed on 25 January 2012)
233. Full moon days in 462 CE at Jalgaon. Notice June 27, 462 CE as the date of full moon. (Source: Time and Date.com, www.timeanddate.com/calendar/moonphases/html?year=0462&n=1664; accessed on 25 January 2012)

234. Year calendar of 462 CE, India also showing the moon phases of the year. Notice June 27, 462 CE as the date of full moon. (Source: Time and date.com, www.timeanddate.com/calendar/?year=462&country=35; accessed on 25 January 2012)
235. Month calendar, June 462 CE, India showing the moon phases. Notice June 27 as the date of full moon. (Source: Time and Date.com, www.timeanddate.com/calendar/custom.html?year=462&month=6&country=35&df=1; accessed on 25 January 2012)