This dissertation is made possible by sitting on the shoulders of giants: countless studies and insights, experiences and perceptions, suggestions, and inputs by scholars, students, and teachers who have devoted their energies and time to interpret documents and develop theories. In particular, I would like to express my gratitude to my guide Dr. Shailendra Kushwaha for his patience, encouragement, and kindness. His deep insights and wisdom backed by years of experience in museums and archives; particularly those in Rajasthan provided me with the correct context for understanding western theories in Indian milieu. His total confidence in me made my task ten times more difficult. I am overwhelmed with his energetic willingness to help me with all my technical and theoretical challenges in spite of his busy schedule. I also would like to thank both the teaching and non-teaching staff at the Faculty of Fine Arts and Hansa Mehta library for their selfless support and encouragement. I gratefully remember my dear students and friends who volunteered help at various stages: Harsh, Ishita, Shoumik and Shail. Shivani and Shikha also helped with research assistance, while Saumya, and Preeti helped with proof-reading.

This dissertation owes its beginnings in the disagreements with many persons at many academic institutes. I am grateful to many architects and designer friends, and colleagues in CEPT and NID. I am grateful to all of them for initiating the query. Early research for this thesis started when I was working on Vistara exhibition for FOI with Charles Correa and other committee members. I fondly express my deep gratitude to the whole team. Many institutes and libraries have played an important role. I am thankful to Albert Hall museum and library and Jawahar kalakendra at Jaipur. I also benefitted from the libraries at National Museum, AIIS, and IGNCA at Delhi. I particularly remember librarians at School of Art Institute of Chicago and Ryerson library at University of Chicago, Philadelphia Archives, NY Public library, and Columbia University libraries in NY. UIC offered me archival treasures. I have learnt so much from the UIC Professors. Dr. Sokol, Dr. Zimmermann, Dr. Spur and Dr. Linder among others.

Lastly, I would like to express my deep love and intellectual debt to many of my Gurus: Prof. Dhaky, Dr. Vatsyayan, Prof. Doshisaheb, and Dr. Kar. They laid a deep foundation and a high standard for me. They are second to my family members who have always inspired and supported me in everything I have endeavoured in. This dissertation became possible only because of one person's determination -- Preeti did not leave any option to me. I also fondly remember my mother and Bipinbhai and Kandarpbhai—they would have been so proud to see this dissertation.
