It gives me a sense of deep satisfaction as a Nutritionist in presenting this research work. It has been a challenge collecting data and putting it together to form a comprehensive study which will contribute in the area of nutrient-drug interaction. I wish to thank all those who helped me in accomplishing this study.

First and foremost, I express my sincere gratitude to my mentor Prof. Uma Iyer who has been a constant source of inspiration since my graduation days. The day she taught 'Nutrient-Drug interaction' in our masters programme, I dreamt to do research in this area. I was in seventh heaven when she gave me metformin-B12 topic as my doctoral work. Brain storming sessions with her kindled in me, the thinking ability as a researcher and broadened my love for wisdom to deserve a doctorate degree.

I heartily thank the head, Prof. Meenakshi Mehan for peacefully coordinating all the academic requirements during this doctoral course.

I am indebted to Dr. Atul Gogia who permitted me to enroll Type 2 diabetics from Medicine O.P.D. of Sir Ganga Ram hospital, a tertiary health care institute in Delhi. His interest in the research area of diabetes provided useful insights and required attention for ensuring the quality of data collected for this study. His team of residents with plethora of cooperation made my data collection an enjoyable experience.

I would like to acknowledge ICMR for providing financial assistance in form of Junior Research fellowship, The Maharaja Sayajirao University of Baroda for all the infrastructural support and Sir Ganga Ram library which gave me access to medical literature. I appreciate the smooth flow of supplemented medicines through Mr. Sudhir and Ms. Gurdeep from Cipla and Rapross pharmaceutical companies and thank Diabetes Foot Care India Limited for providing neuropathy monofilaments in time.

As a nutritionist, I owe my existence to the Foods and Nutrition department of The Faculty of Family and Community Sciences which has been my second home in presence of compassionate teachers like Prof. Mini, Prof. Annie, Prof. Vanisha, Dr. Swati, Dr. Shonima and Dr. Shruti who have extended a helping hand whenever there were ups and downs faced during this course. Company of my seniors especially Shruti di who always responded to my calls and PhD mates Pooja, Kuhu, Annapurna, Aditika and Shweta was rejoiced through discussions about our research work. Other nutritionist friends Preeti and Dr. Nitya who were my batch mates since graduation were excellent source to share my dilemmas.

My social circle in Ganga Ram with a mention of my statistician pals Parul Chug and Pooja Arora provided me a platform where we exchanged ideas in handling data sets in research.

I need to thank all the helpers like Sandeep, the OPD coordinator and the lab staff of Sir Ganga Ram hospital along with the non-teaching staff of Foods and Nutrition department of The Faculty of Family and Community Sciences like Meenakshi ben, Smita ben, Mangal Bhai, Manoj bhai and all others.

And yes, I am grateful to all my study patients without whose cooperation this study would have never been possible and I hope they too benefitted from my study as after all the whole idea behind research is to help humanity.

Having a loving, caring and supportive spouse Dr. Vinay was an asset in times when the work was demanding. It seems to me that he lived my dream with me. The sparkling eyes and a million-dollar smile of my son Tanay were refreshing to boost my moods during my thesis writing when he sacrificed my laps and hugs so that I can accomplish my aspiration to be a doctorate. Besides the emotional support from my entire family especially mom-dad, bhaai- bhaabhi and that of in-laws who boosted my confidence in self when I suffered deleterious health issue during this course, my cousin Mudit needs a special mention with whom I share a loving bond since child hood. His inputs in improving my weakness in using computer tools wherever required during this entire endeavour can never be forgotten and his brotherhood spirit of taking out time for me despite of being a busy IIT-IIM professional was very special.

At the end but not the least I bow to thank the Almighty for successfully accomplishing this task and my heartiest thanks to all my Brahma Kumari community for making me soul realized that enhanced my emotional quotient to improve my personality traits as a researcher.
