

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I take this opportunity to express my appreciation to a group of people without whose encouragement and support the completion of this dissertation would hardly have been possible.

First and foremost, I earnestly want to thank my Guide, Dr. Shubhada Kanani, for her ever-so-encouraging ways, enthusiasm, optimistic attitude and insights, and for supplying the cornerstone of all academic endeavors - honest criticism. For her, no question of mine was too difficult - or too trivial.

I extend my thanks to Prof. Subadra Seshadri, Head, Department of Foods and Nutrition, M. S. University of Baroda, for making available the facilities to carry out this study.

My thanks go to Baroda Citizens Council - JSI/MotherCare Project for partially supporting this research. I am particularly thankful to Mira Mistry and Smita Maniar of the project for always lending me a helping hand whenever required.

I acknowledge with profound thanks, the cooperation extended by the staff members of the Vadodara Municipal Corporation's Health Department, especially by Dr. Shirish Patel, Medical Officer (Health), Dr. Pratibha Patel, Family Welfare Medical Officer, Dr. Ragini Mair, Dr. Meenakshi Chauhan and all the health functionaries. I also wish to thank Dr. V. T. Javli, Chief District Health Officer, Vadodara, and Dr. Sheikh, Medical Officer, Bhaili PHC, along with his helpful staff members.

I am particularly grateful to the pregnant women and their family members for letting me peep inside their private world.

I record my sincere thanks to Dr. P. V. Kotecha, Professor of Preventive and Social Medicine, Government Medical College, Vadodara for training me in the use of Epi Info and also for showing an interest in my study.

Dr. Dileep Mavalankar of the Public Systems Group, Indian Institute of Management, Ahmedabad is warmly thanked for providing valuable resource material on Health Systems Research.

My heartfelt thanks go to the usual suspects - Kavita and Vandana - for their love, friendship and sustenance throughout the study period. Hemangini, Uma, Kismet, Arti, Amrit, Varsha, Maushami, Kalpana and Sonal deserve special thanks for their all time cheer.

All of the Ghanekars and Ranades contribute to the spirit of my work - as they always have. I owe unending gratitude to my parents, grandparents, brother and sister, for their tireless and selfless back up, affection and care.

To all others who knowingly or unknowingly made this work possible - a final word of thanks!

Jai Ghanekar
