

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

A great deal of labour, time and effort goes into the writing of thesis. The task is long and lonely one with avalanches floods and abysses, which needs to be overcome & move ahead. This journey would remain incomplete till I acknowledge the people who made it possible.

First and foremost my sincerest gratitude to my guide, Dr Prerana Mohite, who has supported me with her patience and knowledge whilst allowing me the room to work in my own way.

I must mention my deep sense of appreciation and gratefulness to Dr Rajani Ashar, who generously gave her time and insight, and helped organize my thoughts & content of this research.

Sincere thanks are extended to principal, Dr. Shilpa Charankar for her constant support, to Dr. Ravikala Kamath for having faith in me.

I want to state that I am most grateful to all Early Childhood Education settings that is Private, Government centers & Non Government Centers, their principals, administrators, teachers and parents who willingly offered their time and energies for my research. Without their support this research would not have come to fruition.

Successful completion of a rigorous course like this cannot be achieved without constant support of friends and also critics. I extend a big THANK YOU to all my friends and colleagues at Mumbai and Baroda. Ruby Thapar, Sangeeta Chaudhary, Neelam, Jyotidi Manjuladi needs a special mention in this regard.

For the help in statistical analysis I wish to thank Shri J.C. Sharma & Ravi Prakash. Mrs. Chetna Ajmera and her team special Shabana Shaikh needs special thanks for their enormous cooperation in typing, storing and organizing my work.

Where would I be without my family? I wish to convey thanks to all my family members. My sisters, brothers, nephews and nieces, who collectively pushed me, threatened, encouraged & enquired patiently for research progress and completion.

My PARENTS deserve special mention for their inseparable support and prayers. They taught to believe in myself, put in hard work with honesty and devotion. This research is dedicated to them.

This research would have been an uphill task had it not been for the U.G.C. fellowship I received through Faculty Improvement Programme.

Finally, I would like to thank everybody who was important to the successful realization of thesis, as well as expressing my apology that I could not mention personally one by one.
