

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

It is my pleasant duty and privilege to thank those who have helped me considerably in completion of my thesis. I am highly and immensely grateful to Prof. (Dr.) Syed Maswood, Head and Dean, Faculty of Law, The Maharaja Sayajirao University of Baroda, Vadodara, my guide and supervising teacher for his active encouragement and inspiring influence. In preparing this study, I have been greatly benefited by the wise counsel and most effective suggestions from Prof. (Dr.) Maswood. Affectionate prodding in moments of complacency, and encouragement and support in moments of trepidation, I received in abundance from my Guide Prof. (Dr.) Syed Maswood.

I also owe a deep sense of gratitude to my revered teacher, Prof. (Dr.) S. N. Parikh, former Head and Dean, The Maharaja Sayajirao University of Baroda, Vadodara, who has inspired me to take up this topic for research. Prof. (Dr.) S. N. Parikh had very kindly helped and guided me through different stages. This study would have remained incomplete without the very competent advice of Prof. S. N. Parikh, who took pains and carefully gone through the entire thesis and helped me remove many anomaly in the draft work and contributed to many fine points of legal drafting with his enlightened suggestions. To him, I owe a deep sense of gratitude.

No acknowledgement is complete unless one's appreciation of the library services is fully recorded. At this juncture, thanks are due to Ms. Shobha, sweet and helpful librarian, Faculty of Law, M. S. University of Baroda, Cooperative staff of Smt. Hansa Mehta Library, M. S. University of Baroda and the staff of the library, Indian law Institute, Delhi and Staff of the M. S. K. Law College, Bharuch who have provided all the books required for the study on time.

No words of acknowledgement would be adequate to describe the infinite patience, fortitude and care shown by my husband, Mr Anant Anand Pokhariyal whose encouragement and inspiration, in times of despair and distress, makes possible the completion of the study.

I am equally grateful to my mummy and papa and my in-laws whose sincere interest and continuous enquiry regarding the progress of the study has been constant source of inspiration in my research pursuit. Consistent moral boosting and support given by my mummy and papa proved to be the lamp-post for me in the dark moments of confusion.

I cheerfully acknowledge invaluable contribution of my 3 years old daughter Kavya who has provided conducive atmosphere for me to work. I am immensely indebted of her generous understanding. I am beholden of her love and affection.

In making the present study, I received generous help and support from all my colleagues of Faculty of law, M. S. University of Baroda particularly Dr. Ghanshyam Solanki, Dean of Students, who infused into me the spirit and will to work. Also I must record my appreciation towards administrative staff, particularly Ms. Deepa Shah and Shri Malik who offered their silent support and facilitated conducive atmosphere for this work.

Also, I am indebted to all those scholars and writers, the writings of whom I have read and quoted in this work.

Finally, this brief note of thanks reflects my deep sense of gratitude in full measure, to those who are instrumental for the successful conduct and completion of my doctoral thesis.

Purvi Gharia-Pokhariyal
