

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

This work is the outgrowth of inspiration, encouragement, support and assistance that I have received from various persons and institutions. Without their help this work could not be completed. Words fail to express my measurable gratitude to them.

I am unable to convey in words what I owe to my research supervisor Professor D. S. Pathak, for his invaluable guidance, encouragement, candid comments and constructive criticism throughout the course of this work. I gratefully acknowledge his constant advice, persistent guidance and the significant discussion I had with him from time to time.

I am also thankful to Dr. D. V. Baloni, for his directive advice and immense assistance I received in econometric issues. Again I must not forget to acknowledge deep sense of gratitude to my cousin Hassan Ali Abu-Rashed, working at the Central Bank of Jordan, for his continuous help and untiring efforts in echoing positively to my inquiries. Both these persons deserve a place second to my research supervisor in terms of their invaluable aid to my research project.

I am highly grateful to Prof. B. S. Patel, Dean, Faculty of Commerce and to Prof. S. K. Singh, Head, Department of Business Economics and to Prof. K. R. Shah, Shri Saiyed Ali, Dr. A. S. Rao and Dr. S. N. Bansal for their continuous encouragement and support during my research.

Again I owe a lot to Prof. V. N. Kothari, Prof. N. M. Pandya and Dr. P. R. Joshi, all in Department of Economics, Faculty of Arts, M. S. University, for their continuous encouragement during my study in India. I express also my sincere thanks to Prof. Om. P. Juneja, Director of Canadian Studies and to Shri J. P. Parikh, Shri B. C. Patel, Shri Dineshbhai Modi, Shri Vinod Surve for their moral support and help during various stages of this study.

I also express my sincere appreciation to the following institutions and departments for their substantial assistance they extended to me. They are : Central Bank of Jordan, Royal Scientific Society, Department of Statistic and Yarmouk University library, for the facilities and help whenever I approached them.

Again the similar response I received from the following institutions in India : Department of Economics, Faculty of Arts and Smt. Hansa Mehta Library, both of M. S. University of Baroda; Vikram Sarabhai Library of Indian Institute of Management, Ahmedabad; and Sardar Patel Institute of Economics and Social Research, Ahmedabad; and the library of Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi. To all these institutions, I record my gratitude for the willing and smiling help extended to me at all times.

To my friends, Mr. Jamal Shamia, Mohammad Aboudi and Dr. Hassan Kasasbeh and to all of my friends, who held my spirit high all throughout, I am very grateful. I record my thanks to my Indian intimate friends Shri Mohammad Iqbal Darsot and Shri Amarjit Singh Chani, for their help during my stay in India.

Above all, but for the sacrifices, enormous affection and well wishes of my parents, sisters and brothers, I would not have been what I am today. To them I shall be always grateful. I am indebted to my elder brothers Jamal, Waleed and Khaled for their encouragement, moral and financial support since the day in 1985, I came to study in India. To them I owe a lot and shall be always loyal. I record my appreciation also to my younger brother Nasser who stood by me through thick and thin, with words of courage and comfort, when he was studying alongwith me. I express my deep gratitude to all those kinsmen without whose patience, inspiration, encouragement and support, this work would not have seen the light of the dawn.
