

Acknowledgement

The preparation of the thesis has been tedious and a difficult task. The work would not have taken the present shape without the cooperation and guidance of so many people, who have helped in various phases of the study.

I take this opportunity to express my profound sense of gratitude to my guide, Pro. Kumar, Head, Department of Education and Dean, Faculty of Education and Psychology, who has always given me immense support, guidance and has indulged me through the study period. I am grateful to him for his untiring patience and readiness. Without his encouragement and keen interest in my work this study would not have made headway.

I am extremely thankful to all the teaching and not teaching staff in the M.S University of Baroda faculty of Education and psychology for their constant help and encouragement.

I wish to express my sincere appreciation to those teachers, experts, supervisors and university lecturers who have spared their valuable time for this work.

I bow my head to my parents for their unconditional love and who have constantly inspired me to complete the present investigation.

My heartfelt thanks for my dearest wife for the support rendered by her, constant encouragement, inspiration and sacrifice during my stay in Baroda/ India for the research work, can't be just described in words.

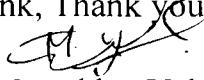

My sincere thanks are to my beloved kids who had been starving for my love and affection. Words fail to express my feelings for them.

I sincerely thank my brothers and sisters for their love, moral and emotional support extended to me from them.

I express my gratitude to all those who have directly helped me and inspired me to pursue this work with all its true spirit and seriousness. I thank all of them.

Last but not the least, everyone that I have forgotten to thank, Thank you.
