

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

My debts are manifold and various. This gives me an opportunity to heartily acknowledge everybody who encouraged, guided and helped me in completing this work.

First, with warm regards, I express my sincere gratitude to my research guide Professor (Mrs.) B.H. Elavia. As the word guide rightly connotes, I have constantly been inspired and progressively nurtured by Madam in completing my Ph.D.

I am grateful to the Reserve Bank of India and the M.S. University of Baroda for awarding me the research fellowship for the Ph.D. programme.

I am deeply thankful to Professor A.G. Patel, the Dean, and Mr. U.D. Pandya, the Superintendent of the Faculty of Commerce, for their kind cooperation and encouragement. My special thanks to all my colleagues at the Department of Banking and Business Finance for the immense help I have received, throughout my association with them.

I owe my never-ending gratitude to my uncle and aunt, Prof. and Mrs. G.S. Gupta, for their constant encouragement to put in all the hard work that may reflect in this endeavour.

It is with overwhelming joy that I express my heartfelt appreciation to all my friends in lending their most needed helping hand in the finale of this thesis. Meena and Bijoy for tabulation, Ashir for proof-reading and Hema for editing need special mention.

My very special thanks and a big congratulation to Jimmy for the excellence and expediency in his first typing assignment on the computer.

I am in loss of words to express the depth of my feelings for my mother and family members at Hindaun whom I missed the most during my studies at Baroda. Needless to say, I solely devote this work as a tribute to my late father.

SHARAD BANSAL