In my turn to express my gratitude, I would like to express my gratitude to Prof. D.K Bhonsle, my supervisor and former Dean, Faculty of Performing Arts of the Maharaja Sayajirao University, Baroda and also a renowned classical vocalist of Bhendi Bazaar Gharana and light vocal performer. I have obtained my Bachelor of Performing Arts and Masters of Performing Arts in violin from the same University. With the expert advice and direct supervision of Prof. D. K Bhonsle, this research on "Forms And Styles of Hindustani Music in Bangladesh" specified on Khayal and Thumri in the context of Gayaki and Tantakari, has come to fruition.

I am indebted to the Indian Council for Cultural Relation (ICCR) for financing my research work and grateful to get the ICCR scholarship-regulated by the Indian Government.

I would like to express my gratitude to Nilkanth Narhar Ghanekar- an accomplished violin player of the Indian sub- continent, Baroda Gujarat. He has been my Guru, my Advisor, and Guide in my music life. Mr. Ghanekar, an accomplished artist, though not well known in Bangladesh, is famous in India with international acknowledgment for his performances.

I am grateful to Prof. R.C. Mehta, a renowned musicologist of India. He is my advisor and guide, and jointly with my guide Prof. D.K Bhonsle who helped me to complete this thesis successfully. The subject selected by me is rare in the music history of Bangladesh as well as of India. I sincerely hope that the music history of India, as well as that of Bangladesh will receive high appreciation of this research .

Prof. Mahesh Champaklal, Dean of the Faculty of Performing Arts of M.S. University took keen interest in the progress of my work and has advised me throughout my career- I am highly indebted to him. I am so much obliged to Smt. Utpala A. Mehta of the Dept. of English of M.S. University of Baroda who has corrected my English at several places. My field of research is Bangladesh. In such a situation, incidentally I found a co- guide and in Babu Rahman- a renowned vocalist, composer and musicologist of Bangladesh. He was my teacher at the beginning of my vocal music life. It was really wonderful that he was again supervising me directly at the end of my higher study. I am indebted to him for his extending me the opportunity to use his personal library, other necessary data, photographs, rare books and audiocassettes without any monetary obligation. There was no stipulated time to discuss and to consult him. It will not be an exaggeration to say that he is a versatile genius to the present music of Bangladesh. Despite all his personal problems, he helped me with my thesis. I have frequently referred to his article 'Bangladesher Sangeet-1947 to 1998' published in 'Monthly Sargam', the only music magazine of Bangladesh.

Without Ustad Babu Rahman, my thesis would not have reached this level. His valuable direction and advice have enriched my thesis at every stage. Probably I would not be able to repay his debt in my entire life. I am also grateful to Qazi Rownak Hossain, the editor of 'Monthly Sargam'

I wish to acknowledge Monoranjan Das and Apel Mahmud, officers of Radio Bangladesh and also the officers of Bangla Academy for giving me the opportunity to use their collections and magazines.

I am grateful to my mother Alpana Mumtaz, is a renowned dance director in Bangladesh, who provided me with support and encouragement. Without her loving care I would not have been able to complete this work. I am also Thankful to my elder sister Dr. Shoma Mumtaz who is an Asst. Prof. of the Dept. of Drama And Dramatics of Jahangirnagar University at Dhaka.

I am also grateful to my elder brother K.H. Rahman, a non-resident Bangladeshi living in Canada for his generous help. He has gifted me a personal computer, which has helped me to complete my thesis less laboriously.

I would also like to express my gratitude to the following people for their generous support:

Prof Ahmed Reza, Dept of English, Jahangirnagar University, Dr. Sonia Nishat Amin of the Dept of History at Dhaka University and Dr. Abhijit Reaz for editing the translation of my thesis.
