

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The author would like to express his deep sense of gratitude to my revered guide and mentor Dr. K. C. Tiwari, for his esteemed guidance from initiation to completion for this work. His most sympathetic guidance, regular supervision and invaluable suggestions gave me inspiration to complete this kind of work. I am extremely thankful of his benign gesture, the memories of which will remain etched on my heart forever.

I am thankful to Prof. P. P. Patel, Head, Department of Geology, for permitting me to use all the facilities to fulfill this thesis work.

The author remains indebted to Dr. D. Ramakrishnan who, besides his motivation, harboured during the period of the aggravation with brotherly affection. The technical discussion with him enabled the author to solve the intricacies for which author remained thankful.

The encouragement, timely help and suggestions extended by Dr. A. V. Joshi, Prof. N. D. Desai, Prof. S. Ganapathi remained boost for the author.

The author is indebted to the Dr. C. R. Shah, Consultant for his timely help during the analytical interpretation of the database.

Author is thankful of the people of study area for their kindness and co-operation during the fieldwork, without which the work is not possible to complete.

The author owes his gratitude to

1. The Secretary, Irrigation Department, NWRDC, permitting the data collecting from various governmental organizations.
2. Dr. V. M. Yagnik, S. E., Shri P. C. Gadhavi, Mahi Irrigation Circle, Nadiad, openhearted and openhandedly providing the data and extending the guest house facility during the fieldwork.
3. District Statistical Officer, Taluka Panchayat, Nadiad, for providing the available database.
4. Shri, J. K. Patel, Shri, C. D. Patel, Soil Survey Organization, GERI, Vadodara for providing the various records and extending the laboratory facility as well as the field based testing facility.
5. Managing Director, GWRDC, Gandhinagar, for granting the permission and providing the litho-logs and related literature.

6. Dr. Vala, Director, Agricultural Department of Gujarat, issuing the database and allowed to zerox the related literature. .

Author extends his sincere thanks to

1. Shri N. M. Bhatt, Environmental Engineering Division, M. S. University of Baroda for generously providing the laboratory facility and guidance at various stages during the chemical analysis of the samples.
2. Dr. A. V. Shroff, Dr. D. L. Shah, Applied Mechanics Department, M. S. University, Vadodara, for providing the instrumental facility during the execution of this work.
3. Shri H. G. Patel, Manager, GSFC, Science Laboratory, Vadodara, for openhandedly providing the laboratory facility at free of charge.
4. Shri H. P. Pandya, Research Officer, Soil Testing Division, and Dr. K. F. Patel, Remote Sensing Division, GERI, for providing the laboratory facility and necessary database to procure the work..
5. Dr. T. K. Gundurao, RSIC, IIT Powai, Mumbai for FTIR and X-ray analysis of the soil samples.

These laboratory facilities provided have gone a long way in accessing and supporting my ideas.

The author is grateful to the non-teaching staff for their co-operation during the various stage of the work.

The elation and help extended by colleagues Shri Jignesh Patel, Dr. Parag Sohoni, Dr. George Mathew, Dr. A. S. Khadkikar, Shri Uday Bhonde, Shri Sunit Biswas, Shri Lalit Thakur and by other fellow colleagues is highly appreciated.

The author will fail in his duties if, he fails to thank Smt. Gayathri Tiwari, for her affection that smoothened the agonies of the author.

It is not mere acknowledgement of the moral support, guidance and co-operation, which I received from my family, but I feel proud by mentioning that, whatever I am today, it is because of the indefatigable zeal and unbounded affection of my mother, sister, brother-in-law, my wife and maternal uncles. Their constant encouragement, inspiration and sacrifice during the period of his research work deserve the author's sincere acknowledgement.

Last but not the least I am thankful to all those who have helped me in what-so-ever manner during this work, whom I might have missed inadvertently... ...

Vadodara

December 2001

SANJAY J. SHAH