

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

First, I wish to thank my elder brother Suresh Mallya for his constant support and motivation of three long years; and, making this target sound possible and achievable whenever there were lots of hiccups on the way, which were beyond my control. His only grouse is that I took too long to complete the thesis!

I am grateful beyond words to my guide, Professor Parul Dave who was always there for me with her guidance and support. She provided me with opportunities to ‘sound off’ my case study processes on various platforms and shared her material with me.

I thank Professor Peter Martin, Director of the Gerontology Program, Iowa State University, USA, and Visiting Faculty under department Nehru Chair, for asking the right questions at the right time, before the writing process began.

Professor Saraswathi my former teacher, and Head of Department and ,well wisher and friend, warrants a warm thank you for providing inspiration and motivation for the last several years to do my Ph.D. I thank her for spontaneously sharing meaningful literature and just being there for me.

I will always be grateful to Professor Prerana Mohite, Head, HDFs Department for her interest and administrative consideration during the process of my work.

I have no words to thank Ms. Prarthana Pant who was there to extend her help whenever I needed it. I am so grateful to her for helping me prepare AV Aids for the various seminars and lending me her ‘critical eye’ and for the little things she did, in times of dire need.

I am extremely grateful to all my sample and their families who whole heartedly supported this research.

Bhamini Mehta is another person who gave her unstinting help and contributed her might in proof reading the Bibliography as well.

Neha Shah needs special mention here for her diligent transcribing of Gujarati audio tapes into English. Kashmira Bhojak and Neha have to be thanked for helping to triangulate at different times of conducting the research, which helped in the validation process.

Giteshwari has to be thanked for her diligent help in organizing a computer expert to do the figures and a binder, as well as for the last minute proof reading of review chapter.

Rajalakshmi Sriram gave her support during the important last phase. I thank her very much.

Next I wish to thank my lovable relatives Girish, Hemlata, Surekha, Satish, Vijaya, Siddharth and Gitanjali who gave me remote controlled (Thank God! the remote was in my hands!) help and advice in their own way. Without them, this would have been a very insipid exercise; I love them very much for being what they are!

I conclude by thanking Mahesh Soni who prepared the different drafts of my thesis after wading through reams of papers with my handwriting !
