

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

I take this opportunity to thank sincerely my guide Dr. S.M. Joshi, Reader, Economics department for his initiative, excellent guidance and incessant encouragement throughout the development of this research study. He had always been meticulous in seeing to it that the quality of the present work does not suffer on any account. At many occasions, I had to run for his academic help for clarifying some obscured points and I was never disappointed. For all these, I am highly indebted to him.

Dr. K.M. Joshi, professor, faculty of management studies, had been conspicuous by extending his cooperation in every possible way and had been instrumental in facilitating the completion of this study. He had been my friend, philosopher and guide.

Professor V.N. Kothari had always been there to extend his academic help and taking personal interest and care.

I am also thankful to professors (MRS) M.N. Shah, Head, department of economics and (MRS) L.A. Rede for their kind encouragement.

Dr. T.R. Bishnoi had quite often made available some academically useful research material and had been responsible also for expediting my work. Thanks are also due to Dr. Ashir Mehta for inspiring me and extending moral support under some extenuating circumstances.

I am indeed, grateful to Mr. Mayank Ray and Mrs. Varsha Chitania for expediting the typing work and for handling the excruciatingly dull job of typing and retyping the entire thesis with characteristic sincerity and expertise. They were ably and efficiently assisted by Manoj Gauswami and Rupen Soni.

Final thanks go to (Mrs.) Suramya S. Joshi for her loving care and affection through out my study years. I hereby Acknowledge my gratitude to her.

Responsibility for any errors and omissions is solely mine.
