

I owe an acknowledgement to my PhD mates and friends Swati Parnami, Sujoya Sukul, Ruchi Vaidya, Aakanksha Mahendra, Neha Gupta, and Shriya Sekseriya for their support, encouragement and friendship. They have helped incalculably and inspired me during the entire journey of my doctoral work. Thanks to all, it was a pleasure studying and working with you.

I shall forever remain extremely grateful to University Grant Commission for providing financial assistance for my study.

This degree would remain unaccomplished if I fail to express my thanks to Mamaji (Mr. Ashwani Gupta), Mamiji (Mrs. Uma A. Gupta), Akshit and Ankit. I will remain indebted for their support rendered throughout this tenure.

To be born in a freedom fighter family is an honor and I pay a special tribute to my Grandparents for their devotion and sacrifice for the country. They are always a source of inspiration to me.

At this juncture, my parents deserve special mention for their inseparable support and prayers. My Father, Jawahar L. Gupta, encouraged me to do research and join PhD. It was his dream to see me as a PhD. My Mother, Neelam Gupta, always a source of unconditional love and care for me. They stood by me throughout my research roller coaster and always supported me with conviction and oodles of patience during dissertation. Without their support all this would be difficult. I owe them eternal gratitude. I dedicate this work to my beloved parents. My elder brother (Big B) Captain Krishna M. Gupta, who is more like a father to me has provided me emotional support and motivated me for completing my work. He has been my pillar of strength during the times when I used to be in emotional upheaval. Thank you bhaiya... Oh!! Yes, I am fortunate to have these three cheerleaders- my younger brother Er. Kshitij M. Gupta, sister-in-law Deepti Gupta and little nephew Varenayam, they always encouraged me to achieve my parents dream.

It is a statement of fact when one says 'children cannot choose their parents.' Even if I had the choice I could not have gone in for better ones than what Almighty has provided me with. Thank you God for choosing and giving me such lovely family...and carrying me all these years with unending love and blessings bestowed upon me to do this work.

Finally, I would like to thank everybody who has helped me directly or indirectly in the successful completion of my thesis, as well as expressing my apology that I could not mention personally one by one.
