My PhD journey was one of my life's most learning, fruitful and challenging phases. It has evolved me into a better person with a clear vision for my professional and personal life. The completion of this thesis would not have been possible without the support and encouragement of my teachers, family, mentors and friends who shaped and guided me during this phase. Hence, I would like to take this opportunity to show my gratitude to those who have assisted me in a myriad of ways.

First and foremost, I offer my sincerest gratitude to my guide, Prof. Rasheedunnisa Begum, an incredible person who gave me the opportunity to pursue a PhD and supported me throughout my Ph.D. journey with her patience, knowledge, and belief in me. She has been the backbone in moulding my academic enhancement since I started my postgrad studies. I attribute the level of my Ph.D. degree to her motivation, encouragement, guidance, and efforts. Her patience and work style taught me to work in an organized manner. She not only guided me but shaped my career. I highly admire her regularity, and sincerity towards work and strive to incorporate her principles in life to better myself and live a future life. I am forever indebted to Madam for entrusting me and the continued confidence in my ability to accomplish the same.

My mentor, Prof. A.V. Ramachandran (RB Ma'am collaborator), who guided me in diabetes research, brainstorming ideas, and challenging the research problem from all perspectives. In addition, he encouraged us to interact with fellow scientists and scholars during conferences and exchange the transfer of knowledge. He builds my consciousness to explore the problem to not just answer the question, but how it would impact every factor associated with it.

I place on record my sincere thanks to Prof. C. Ratnaprabha (Head of Department), Prof. Sarita Gupta (Ex. Head of Department) for their constant support and for providing all research facilities. I am also grateful to the entire teaching faculty for their research inputs and assistance which made my thesis more significant. The Department of Biochemistry has provided the support and equipment I needed to produce and complete my thesis.

I am deeply grateful to my Doctoral committee members Prof. Pushpa Robin, Prof. Vihas Vasu and Dr. Ratika Srivastava for their constant positive evaluation during all my annual R&D presentations, valuable scientific suggestions and enriching my understanding.

I wish to thank my Diabetes teammates, Roma, Nirali and Sayantani mam, who were constantly there as a backbone and solaced me in hard times. Great thanks to my other lab mates Ashlesha mam, Shahnawaz sir, Jayvadan, Darshan, Jay, and Dhairya for making the lab environment joyful which made the work amenable. I will cherish the great memories of our (RBL family) chatters, celebrations, house parties, movie times, and trips we all had together. Thanks to all for making this a wonderful journey. I also thank my lab seniors (Mala mam and Mitesh sir) for their concern and contributing more to my knowledge, and for making me learn ingenious strategies. Special thanks to the M.Sc. dissertation students (Naisargi, Satyashree, Dhara and Nilay) who worked with me and contributed to this study.

I thank all the research scholars in the department, especially, Raju, Dr. Dhruv, Dr. Gurprit, Aakash, Tanvi, Saif, Sejal, and Sandeep, for making the working environment enjoyable. Special thanks to Raju for supporting me and encouraging me to achieve my goals. Special thanks to Dr. Dhruv for extending help in carrying out ddPCR experiment.

Special thanks to Darshan Mehta for helping me avail of the confocal facility at The Advanced Centre for Treatment, Research and Education in Cancer (ACTREC), Mumbai, India. I am grateful to Dr. Murali Chilkapati and Mrs. Vaishali Kailaje for providing the confocal facilities at ACTREC.

I am also gratified to all the non-teaching staff members, especially, Sandeep bhai, Manish bhai, Shailesh bhai, Balavant bhai, and Anil bhai for the proper functioning of the office work. Also, I wish to express my gratitude to Bhartiben for taking care of the project funding-related work. Special thanks to Ramesh bhai, Narayan bhai, Vijay bhai from our animal house facility for taking care of the animals and extending a helping hand during the experiments. I also thank Milind dada and Mayurbhai, at the University office for helping me with the academic-related work.

I am indebted to all Diabetic patients and Control subjects who voluntarily helped me and participated in this study. Many thanks to Bhavnaben (20 Microns Diabetes Center, Vadodara) for arranging Diabetes Camps and helping with the sample collection.

I wish to thank my hostel warden Dr. Sanjay Solanki for all his support throughout my hostel life. I am obliged to my hostel friends Jayvadan, Sandeep, Akash, Pavanda, Puneet bhai, and Naru bhai for sharing each and every hostel moment, beautiful memories and awesome food.

I would like to acknowledge Gujarat government for awarding me the SHODH fellowship.

A great thanks to the most amazing friends I have and my constants...Raju, Darshan, Prashant, Dhaval, Dhaval (Bhaibandh), Ritu, Disha, Prarthi, Jay, Dhairya, Jayvadan, Sandeep, Hiren, Akshay and Kashyap and my friends at the University who are always there to share all sorts of good and bad moments, consoled me in my bad times, listened to my silly complaints tranquilly, understood me, helped me regain healthy mind and healthy body, supported & encouraged me...for all kinda fun we had together, Birthday parties, surprises, entertaining me with a huge repertoire of anecdotes and stories, for random treats, and bearing the brunt of my frustration and rages. Thanks a lot!!! Without you all I am incomplete...

Finally, I wish to thank my walls of strength, beloved Papa and Mummy and my grandparents (Dadi & Dada and Nani & Nana) for their unconditional love, care, constant support, and encouragement in all types of situations. Thank you for believing in me more than me and loving me so much. Thanks a ton for all your blessings and prayers. Without your support, my doctoral studies dream wouldn't have been possible. Papa, it is your dedication, hard work, and upbringing for what I am today and for what I have achieved so far. I can't thank you enough. Yours is the greatest contribution to this journey. Special thanks to my sister Aekta for their love and motivation during good as well as bad times.

Also, I owe a debt of gratitude to my special beloved person, Bhoomi. I thank God every day that I am blessed with the best life partner. You are my inspiration and positive energy. I can't thank you enough for all the unconditional love, care, support and motivation you have given me during my all ups and downs. Your presence made my Ph.D. climax happiest and most memorable.

I am deeply grateful and thankful to Dinesh Kaka, Vidya Kaki, Nimu fue, Harsha fue and Nita fue for their blessings, constant support and encouragement to achieve my goals.

I wish to thank all my cousins' sisters Neha, Nikita, Vidhisha, Dipika, Bhavika, Komal, Neha and Rakshita for their blessings and love. Also, I wish to thank all my cousins' brothers Hiren, Jasmin, Jay, Vishal, Dhyey, Chintan, Prashant, Yesh and Mohit for their support. I wish to thank Jigar jijaji, Ravi jijaji, Amit jijaji, Gaurang jijaji, Milan jijaji, Pritesh jijaji, Chandani bhabhi, Richa bhabhi, Hetal bhabhi, Nirali bhabhi, Ashwini bhabhi, Riddhi bhabhi for their support. Most importantly I wish to thank all my nieces and nephews Somya, Yuttika, Kiyan, Iwan, Priyansh, Aarav, Swara, Hiya, and Dhvani for their positive vibes. A great thanks to the Priya, Bhakti and Bhavya for their positive energy and support.

PhD phase is part of my whole life which involved ups and downs. I wish to thank my family members Masi (Gita, Nitu, Hetal and Nimu), Masa (Kishor, Prabhudas, Natwar and Girish), Fua (Shantilal, Shashikant, and Prakash), Dipak mama and Manisha mami constant support and encouragement.

Last but not least, I am grateful to God Almighty for granting me countless blessings and for establishing me to complete this thesis. Each moment during the course of this work, I have experienced the grace of God, who opened before me unexpected avenues and inspired me to move forward even in moments of despair.

Thanks to one and all who directly or indirectly, lent their helping hand in this endeavour.

There is only one thing that makes a dream impossible to achieve: the fear of failure!!!
