

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

At this unforgetful moment of contentment on the successful fulfillment of an ambition nurtured for long, I prostrate at feet of the Almighty through St. Gregorious, whose profound grace was always there throughout in my life.

This investigation was carried out in the Department of Botany, Maharaja Sayajirao University of Baroda with financial assistance from the University Grants Commission, New Delhi.

I express my humble gratitude at heart to Professor R.P.Bhatt, who guided me during the course of the work, keeping me active and creative through his interest in the work, and also for his valuable suggestions while critically reviewing the manuscript. I also thank him for providing me with the necessary laboratory facilities.

It is a matter of great privilege and pleasure to record my profound gratitude to Professor J.J. Shah, my revered preceptor, for his unstinted encouragement, inspiring guidance, independent and constructive thoughts and criticisms enriched in the quality of scientific and methodological components, which are mainly instrumental for the successful completion of this investigation. His never-failing support, unhesitant preparedness to interact with me and discuss problems and results in this area and an occasional but very valuable 'pat' so essential to pursue a research scholar made him an excellent teacher for me. I consider myself very fortunate to have gained a few drops from his vast ocean of knowledge.

My sincere thanks are also due to Professor A.R. Mehta, Professor S.D. Sabnis, Dr. G.M. Nair, Dr. G. Prathapasenan and Dr. K.S. Rao who have contributed to my education by their special knowledge in areas of interest to me. Their good advice have always been of great value to my work.

This endeavour could not have been successful but for the constant assistance and whole-hearted co-operation of my colleague Dr. V.K. Murukesan, to whom I express my sincere and special thanks.

The help rendered by all my friends is gratefully acknowledged. I am particularly thankful for their genuine interest in my work and for rendering help when most needed. Their constructive suggestions while reading the text through various revisions since they read it, and they should not be held responsible for any errors that may occur.

I pay my affectionate tributes to my parents and sisters for whom I cannot adequately express my thanks in words. Their love, constant encouragements and inspiration were the prime source of progress and success of my work.

Even though more words can never replace the emotions one feels, I express the warm and bright flame of gratefulness to my husband and daughter who have endured my longstanding silence, for their understanding and hearty encouragements during the course of this investigation.

Finally I thank M/s Sales & Marketing group for neat and efficient typing.

SUSY