

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The present investigation was done under the guidance and general supervision of Prof. L.J.Bhatt, Head of the Department of Psychology, M.S. University, Baroda. I express my gratitude to him for this. I also thank the authorities of the Psychological Corporation, New York, particularly Dr. H.G.Seashore, one of the authors of the Differential Aptitude Tests, who provided me with the required information and materials, whenever I needed them.

I must thank the authorities of various schools, who appreciated the usefulness of the study and provided all the necessary cooperation and help, which was so essential for completion of this work. Last but not the least, my extreme thanks are due to the authors of the various publications and papers, which have been referred or quoted.
