

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I welcome this opportunity to express my feelings of gratitude to all the people who have helped me in various ways to complete this thesis. On the academic front, the first person whom I would like to thank is my guide Prof. B.H. Elavia for her valuable guidance at every stage of my work. Indeed, I am fortunate to have her as my guide.

I am also grateful to Reserve Bank of India for granting me fellowship for the Ph.D programme.

My sincere thanks are due to the Dean Faculty of Commerce, Prof. B.S. Patel and Prof. J.K. Syan, Head of the Department of Banking and Business Finance for their co-operation.

I am also grateful to the M.S. University and Faculty of Commerce for their kind co-operation.

I am grateful to the library authorities of Hansa Mehta and Women's Studies Research Centre, M.S. University, Centre for Women's Development Studies, National Institute of Public Co-operation and Development and Institute of Social Studies Trust, New Delhi, for their kind co-operation.

I would like to thank my colleagues in the department Prof. Sanjiv Joshi, Dr. Zafar Alam, Mr. Jimmy Vandriwala, and Dr. Dilip Chellani, for their friendliness and help in solving various problems during the period.

I am extremely happy to thank Dr. Hema Chavan as she was always attentive to my research and academic interest and supported me with her suggestions, personal books, articles, etc.

My thanks are due to my friends, Celine for encouraging me to undertake the task of Ph.D and good friendship and support throughout this project, Eisha for her valuable suggestions timely help in solving various problems, and Rani for giving me company in the department.

I extend my sincere gratitude to, my brother-in-law Mr. Jose George for accomplishing the arduous task of proof reading meticulously, my brother Jimmy for his keen interest in my research and help during literature search and my sister-in-law Celine for accompanying me to data collection.

I thank Mr. Bindesh and Vijay of Blossom Computers for their sincere and good computer work during my research work.

I owe immense gratefulness to my parents, brothers and sisters for their constant support and encouragement during the period.
