The journey through doctoral research is like a marathon where one must keep running consistently till one reaches the finish line. I would like to thank all my relatives, friends and well-wishers for their constant support and motivation that kept me going. Amongst them, there are some people who are the cheerers at every phase while others run a few miles with you. As I move towards the closure of my journey as a research scholar, I would like to remember and thank everyone who has been part of this marathon at various phases of my research journey.

I would like to thank my parents for their constant support, encouragement and for being the wind beneath my wings. It is because of them that I am able to accomplish whatever little I have accomplished.

I am fortunate to have a supervisor like Professor Urmi Nanda Biswas, who has been my constant guiding star, navigating me through all situations. It is because of her patience, trust, and open-mindedness in letting me explore the topic that I could fulfil my dream of pursuing doctoral research. Thank you.

I received immense support from several people whom I would like to thank. This includes the esteemed team of experts who validated my toolkit to make it more applicable. My enthusiastic and sincere group of participants Harshita Hassani, Aayushi Bharadwaj, Adrija Mukherjee, Ambica Menon, Aparna Menon, Mrinalini Mukherjee, Mahanetran Murali with whom I conducted the Experience Based Co-Design workshop. The toolkit could not have been envisioned without their extensive creative collaboration. My nephew Abhishek Roy for providing support with the quantitative analysis. To all the incredible women who helped me collect substantial data to make the study meaningful. To my students Sowmya Chandrasekaran, Tanima Jajoo, Aditya De, Vishnu S, Dakshita Kothiwal, Navya

Menon, Nishtha Rikhi for being my all-time go-to people for any quick help. Amogh Dutt for his expertise in language and assistance in compiling the final thesis.

I would also like to thank my peer group Bhavisha Doshi, Rajul Bharti, Sanjay Ghosh, Sumita Sharma who have been extremely encouraging and supportive through this rollercoaster ride – giving me hope and support time and again. Aditi Hazra Ganju and Aakash Ganju for providing me with their professional expertise every now and then.

I am indebted to Manjiri Singh and Naveen Bagalkot for constantly supporting me by shedding some work responsibilities and standing by me in professional front. I sincerely thank Nishigandha Marathe for his support with all the administrative issues. My PhD colleagues Madhuri Vaidhya, Parisha Jijina and Shreya Hiriyur for their camaraderie in making the journey joyful. My two little cats for keeping me positive and sane during the lonely Covid days.

Finally, I would like to thank Syed Akhteruzzaman, who has been a witness to my journey from day zero till now, giving enduring support in every possible way all through.

The work is a compilation of my life lessons, both personally and professionally, and I would like to dedicate this to my dear niece Bihaan Aalo and all the young adolescents wishing them a beautiful life. Thank you.
