

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

A research endeavour such as the one undertaken by me and reported in this thesis can hardly be executed adequately by an individual researcher without the support and assistance of other individuals and institutions in various measures and in different ways and areas where help could be sought. Hence, I acknowledge with deep sense of gratitude the immeasurable support and assistance I received from many individuals and institutions during the period when this research work was carried out.

I remain highly grateful and indebted to my Supervisor, Dr. (Mrs.) L.A. Rede, Professor of Economics, who inspite of her bad health and many other commitments ensured that this work got her adequate supervision. I must say that her constant encouragement, inspiration and guidance have gone a long way in shaping this study. Without her expertise and deep understanding I would have been deprived of the springboard and leverage of the insight and valuable knowledge which I have acquired in the subject today.

I am also obliged to express my profound gratitude to the memory of my former Supervisor, Late Professor Shailendra Singh of the Department of Economics, Lucknow University. It was under his able guidance that I started and progressed this Ph.D. programme before his demise on the 4th of May 1991. His death robbed me of an academic professional who also proved to be a good friend and guardian. May his soul rest in peace.

My thanks also go to Professor M.M. Dadi, Dean of Faculty of Management Studies, M.S. University of Baroda with whom I first discussed my intention to do a Ph.D. in 1988, and who frankly advised me to take up a "Problem" relating to my country (Nigeria). His encouragement in general, and valuable advise with respect to chapter Nine of this thesis are quite acknowledged

I am equally grateful to Professor (Mrs) MN Shah, Head, Department of Economics, The M.S. University of Baroda for her encouragements and for permitting me to use the facilities of the Department, especially the computers without which the data analysis in this work would have been extremely difficult. I am also thankful to Professor V.N. Kothari, Retired Professor of Economics in the Department of Economics, and Professor N.M. Pandya, Dean of Foreign Students, as well as other teachers of the Department of Economics. I am sure that the support and conducive working environment which their simplicity and friendship provided me went a long way in lightening the burden of my research work

The issue of funding of research projects is generally a matter of great concern to the researcher. Hence, I am very thankful to the Indian Council of Social Science Research (ICSSR) for granting me their Regular Doctoral Fellowship. I acknowledge with deep sense of gratitude the immensurable relief which this award provided me. I remain particularly grateful to the ICSSR Officers who were directly involved with my fellowship -- Mr. D.S. Mukhopadhyay, (Joint Secretary in Ministry of Human Resource Development, Government of India, and former Member Secretary ICSSR), Mr. Vinod Mehta, (Director), Mr. Ashok Srivastava (Assistant Director), and Dr. K.D. Gaur (Assistant Director).

I benefitted a lot from visits to Libraries of National Institute of Public Finance and Policy, New Delhi, American Information Centre, Library, New Delhi, Delhi School of Economics, New Delhi, Gokhale Institute of Economics and Politics, Poona, Giri Institute of Development, Lucknow, and British Library, Lucknow and Delhi. Hence, I am very thankful to the Librarians and Library Attendants of these Institutes who did not hesitate in rendering the required assistance to me. I am equally grateful to the staff of the Hansa Mehta Library, M.S. University of Baroda, for their valuable cooperation with me.

I am also grateful to the staff of Nigerian Information Centre Library, New Delhi for their assistance. I am particularly thankful to Mr Fian Nuan (First Secretary during 1989-92) who helped me in procuring some vital Reports.

Indeed, without the support I received from my family it would have been impossible for me to start and finish this programme. Thus, I express my profound gratitude to my family - my parents, Mr. Joseph Nwaogwugwu Nwankpa and Mrs. Ellen Nwankpa, my senior brother Elisha Ndu Nwaogwugwu, and my sisters and brothers and other relatives -- who had to brave emotional and psychological troubles consequent upon my long absence from home.

May I also use this opportunity to acknowledge the valuable help I received from Mr. B.C. Patel (Statistical Assistant), and Mr. Vinod Padaria (Computer Programmer) - both of the Department of Economics, The M.S. University of Baroda -- in respect to Computer Analysis of the data. I also express my thanks to Ashish Pathak who prepared the Computer Programme with which the calculation of Gini Coefficients (reported in chapter 9 of this thesis) has been made possible.

I am equally indebted to M/s. Midea Point whose handling of computer jobs could be described as a cut-above. I have benefitted a lot from their vast experience in Desk-Top Publishing and data works which is well-reflected in this work. I am particularly thankful to the proprietor, Mr. Manjit Banga, and Computer Typist Ms. Varsha Mistry who had to put up with my many demands.

I also acknowledge the assistance of my friends who supported me in one way or the other in course of this research exercise I am particularly thankful to Godson and Ruth Nwankwo, Cyprian Nwamara, Chika Ajuonu, Ejikeme Ude Nwosu, Regina Nnennaya Achinivu, Jude Onwuli, Dr. Emeka Ohajunwa, Paul Effiong, Evans Ngoka, Akash Kumra, Prakash Samnani, Dr. Umesh Naik, Felix Unaji, Lawrence Azu, Henry Anyanwu, Dr. Jamal Naji, Dr. Sugma, Dr. Alla SubbaRao, Ramana, Ramkrishna and Dr. Nagesh..

And finally, I express my gratitude to our peons in the Department of Economics, Ranchodbhai and Babubhai for their valuable services to me in course of this work.
