

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Here I get a pleasant opportunity to express my deep sense of gratitude to Prof. Dr. S.G.Kantawala, Professor and Head, Department of Sanskrit, Pali and Prakrit, Faculty of Arts, M.S.University of Baroda; and Director, Oriental Institute, M.S.University of Baroda, Baroda. The credit of the completion of my thesis goes to my guide and teacher Dr. Kantawala, who gave me valuable suggestions when the thesis was being shaped and the conclusions arrived are mentioned at the proper place. He suggested me some valuable reading material while I was writing the thesis. Similarly I am also grateful to him for his kind help and fatherly advice. He has been very kind to me and always encouraged me throughout my research study. Moreover, though he was very much busy in his official duties and in his responsibility being a Director of the Oriental Institute, he spared his precious time in going through the whole thesis critically with keen interest. He has shown interest in discussions whenever I consulted him. He has always guided me in all my endeavours. Again I mention with great regards my guide and teacher Prof. Dr.Kantawala for his cooperation and helping nature.

I am indebted to my parents Shri Ganesh Navangul and Smt. Alkaben, for their constant encouragement and advice. They took the responsibility and relieved me from all the worries and the domestic work. On the contrary they gave me time to devote to my study. It is due to their monetary help that I am able to complete the research work. Similarly I am thankful to my brother Anilbhai, Reader in Architecture Dept. Faculty of Technology and Engineering, Baroda, who shared the responsibility of my parents and provided the good environment for my study. My thanks are due to Umeshbhai, my brother for extending help in translating some important German passages.

I must specially make a mention with great regards my revered Guru e.g. Nānāmahārāja, who constantly inspired me. I should gladly express my feelings of gratitude towards Ājobā-mahārāja for his suggestions and advice which gave me courage and peace of mind.

I wish too, to thank Prof. D.D.Mahulkar, Hon. Director, U.G.C. Research Project, Dept. of Linguistics, Faculty of Arts, Baroda, M.S. University for his kind co-operation and for extending most willingly his help in various ways whenever required.

I need mention my thanks to B.P.Pandya, Research Officer, in the Oriental Institute, Baroda for finding out the modern map of Mathurānagarī which is attached with this thesis.

At the last, I am thankful to all my well-wishers and friends. I acknowledge their help and good wishes.
