SYNOPSIS

The present work is a critical study of Soddhala's Udayasundarikatha. It reviews the work from different points of view and includes the literary appreciation of the work. The Thesis is divided in three parts.

PART I

THE AUTHOR AND THE TEXT

The first part contains four chepters dealing with the author, the text and the literary form of the work.

CHAPTER I

LIFE AND DATE OF THE AUTHOR

- attan - sa a strain.

It gives information regarding his ancestors, his childhood and education. It also includes information about Soddhala's patrons, the royal brothers Chittarāja, Nāgārjuma and Mummunirāja. Vatsarāja who also patronised him, is specially mentioned as the greatest of the family of the Lāta kings and a friend of the three above-mentioned Konkana kings. This chapter also discusses the problem of the date of Soddhala. It is established that Soddhala must have flourished in the eleventh century of the christian era and his work was written between 1026 A. D. to 1050 A. D.

_____19

GHAPTER II

SUMMARY OF THE TEXT

Udayasundarikatha is a Campu in eight Ucchvase. It is named after the heroine, the Naga princess Udayasundari. The hero of the story is Malayavahana, a king of Pratisthana. The union of the hero and the heroine the theme of the story.

Ucchvasa 1 : It is named as Kavivansanivedana in its colophon. In this, the poet gives information about his family, patrons and the circumstances that let to the composite d ion of his work.

Ucchvasa 2: It is named Suklabha, the attainment of the parrot. The poet tells us two tales - one through the speech of Vasantasila who obtained the parrot, and the other through that of the parrot himself.

Ucchvasa 3 : It is named Citrasamdarsana. King Malayavahana sees the picture - canvass consisting of the pictures of himself and Udayasundari. The canvass was obtained when the parrot was transformed into a youngman.

Ucchvase 4 : It is named Kumarakesarisamagama. The meeting of Kumarakesari with Malayavahana. It consists of the transformation of Kumarakesari into a parrot by the curse of a female ascetic. Uochvāsa 5: It is named Tāpasīraksana, that is the protecte ion of a female ascetic by king Malayavāhana. It consists of the tale of Māyābala, a demon of Lankā and it discloses the throwing of Kumārakesarī into the ocean and also the demon's hankering after the ascetic maiden, whom the king protects from his fierce hands.

Ucchvasa 6: It is named Taravalidarsana, the appearance of Taravali. It consists of the Tapasi's tale in which she describes the trick employed by her to deceive Mayabala, her friendship with Udayasundari, the disappearance of the latter and the search for the same.

Ucchvasa 7 : It is named Ubhayamelaka, the union of the hero, Malayawahana and the heroine Udayasundari in the forest. it consists of the disappearance of Taravali, her transformation into a mare by the waters of a reservoir and a change into the original form by the touch of a gem.

Ucchvase 8 : It is named Sarvananda, i.e. the joy for all. At the arrival of the king and the queen in the city, the whole city was in joy. It consists of the monkey's tale, which narrates how the monkey was cursed to guard the hereine and how later on the curse was removed by the stroke of the palm of Malayavahana.

CHAPTER III

DEVELOPMENT	OF THE	PLOT AN	D THE	SOURCES	OF	THE	STORY
به به به به به به به ا		Letter Production				- serie ers

It shows the significance of different episodes in the development of the plot. The story contains one main tale and six subordinate tales dependent on it. These six subordinate tales are so skilfully intervowen by the poet that they make up the main tale which concerns the Nayaka Malayawahana and the Navika Udayasundari. It also consists of the significance of the device of Citrapata, the role of another pair . of lovers Kumarakesari and Taravali, the curse and two elements of transformation such as the water of the lake and the The last portion of the chapter is devoted to trace the ken. sources of the work and shows how far and in what way the previous literature has influenced Soddhala. He was influenced by certain ideas from the works of previous writers. such as Bhasa's Svapnavasavadatta, Kalidasa's Vikramorvasiya and Malavikagnimitra, Bhavabhuti's Maltimadhava, Bana's works and Harsa's Ratnavali etc.

CHAPTER IV

THE CAMPU IN SANSKRIT LITERATURE

The work is in the form of a Campu, the chapter discusses the word Campu and its definition, and its origin and develop-a representation of the representation of the representation of the representation of the representation of the

22

-ment. The latter part of the chapter deals with the literary form of the work and discusses how far Udayasundarikathā follows the tradition laid down by the previous Campu writers; and Soddhala's personal contribution to the development of this form.

PART II

CULTURAL AND THE LITERARY DATA

The second part consists of four chapters namely, beginning from the fifth to the eighth.

CHAPTER V

HISTORICAL, POLITICAL AND GEOGRAPHICAL DATA

The historical and Political data give the information regarding Dharmapala and Siladitya and also the family tree of Valabhi dynasty. The geographical data deal with the geographical references of the seven continents, the seven oceans, a number of mountains in Jambudwipa, such as Mandara, Gandhamadana, Vipula, Suparsva, Nisadha, Hemakuta, Himadri, Singwan, Svetacala, Nilagiri and Sumeru, Kulaparvatas viz., Vindhya, Pariyatra, Suktiman, Rksa, Mahemdra, Sahya, Malaya and Kanyacala, four big forests of Jambudvipa, four rivers of India, viz., Godavari, Tapi, Narmada and Yamuna, Countries and cities, such as Kuntala, Pratisthana, Sthanaka, Lata, Saurastra, Valabhi, Mathura, Surparaka, Lanka etc.

CHAPTER VI

RELIGIOUS AND SOCIAL DATA

.

It deals with the pantheon of the Vedic and Puranic gods and goddesses and the mythical beings, such as Indra, Varuna, Yama, Brahma, Visnu and his incarnations, Siva, Saci, Uma, Kali, Nagas, Vdyadharas, Kinnaras, Siddhas, Madana, Rati etc., the references to the churning of ocean and Somanatha and Hatkesvara are also noted. The latter part of this chapter deals with the social data which consist of various quarrels in the society, gambling, appeintment of ministers and the other miscellaneous feathres of society.

CHAPTER VII

وجور المنافية م

KAYASTHAS AND THEIR CONTRIBUTION TO INDIAN LITERATURE

It gives the detailed history of Kayasthas tracing the vicissitudes of their social status in the different regions of India. It deals with the contribution of the Kayasthas to Indian literature. The chapter discusses the origin of Kayasthas, references to the Kayasthas in the sanskrit literature, Hindi Kayastha poets, derogatory verses about Kayastha and the Kayasthas in inscriptions.

CHAPTER VIII

THE LITERARY REFERENCES IN THE TEXT AND THE VIEWS OF SODDHALA

This chapter takes into account the literary references especially in Kaviprasastis in the text and an attempt has been made to make a comparative study of the data with references available from other works in Sanskrit. It deals with soddhala's references about Sabhapatis; Vikrama, Hala, Harşa, king Haravarşa yuvaraja, Bhoja and Munja and the poets Valmiki, Vyasa, Gunadhya, Kalidasa, Bhasa, Abhinanda, Yayavara, Kumaradasa, Visakhadeva and Mauraja.

The latter part of the chapter brings together all references which reflect the literary views of Soddhala. An attempt has been made to put these views in the right perspective by composing them with those of the Sanskrit writers on poeties.

PART III

LITERARY ESTIMATE

The third part consists of two chapters namely, the ninth and the tenth, and its subject is the literary estimate.

CHAPTER I X

LITERARY APPRECIATION OF THE TEXT

It deals with the literary appreciation of the text. It contains the detailed discussion on the literary style of Soddhala and his novel method. It studies his syntax, Vocabulary, Synonyms, group of words, uncommon words, onomatopoetic words, numerals, figures of speech, metrical concept, his ability of delineating different sentiments and feelings and his power of description in prose and verse. This chapter also notes Soddhala's proficiency in different Sastras and Mythology.

CHAPTER X

CONCLUSION

It gives an estimate of Soddhala as a poet. It also takes the survey of Udayasundarikathā from different points of view and summarises in nutshell the results available from the study of Udayasundarikathā. It consists of the contribution of Soddhala to the literary form Campu, Soddhala's style analysis, estimate of Soddhala as a story-teller and a poet, the defects of Soddhala with regard to plot construction, delimention of sentiments, characterisation and the style. It also discusses the implications of the historical, geographical and religious data found in the work.

26

27

A P P E N D I C E S

Five appendices have been subjoined to these studies. They are as under :-

APPENDIX I

.

	THE VERSES		3	CONNECTED		WITH		LITERARY	REFERENCES			S
~	• "n • n		• •• •	•	• • • • •	-			۰۰ , ع	,			-
I$	consid	sts	of	(*)	The	verses	in	the	beginning	of	the	tez	ct,
PP. 1 - 3,							and their translation.
				(B)	The	verses	of	Kav	lprasasti,	PP.	153	5 -	155,
				~ ~ ~	and	their t	trai	I sl at	tion.	• -

APPENDIX II

INSCRIPTIONAL PASSAGES

(Frequently referred to in the thesis)

· · · · · ·

Ĵ

It consists of (A) Indian Antiquery Vol. V, P. 276.

· · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·

(B) Indian Antiquery Vol. IX, P. 33.

- -

(C) Journal of the Bombay Branch Royal Asiatic Society, Part XII, Pages 329 - 332.

(D) Indian Antiquery, Vol, XII, Page 196.

APPENDIX III

. بو های موجود می موجود ا

SODDHALA'S SUBHASITAS

. .

A COMPANY AND A CONTRACTOR OF

APPENDIX IV

A FEW SUGGESTED EMENDATIONS IN THE PRINTED TEXT OF UDAYASUNDARIKATHA (G.O.S. XI)

مر ۳ یس د بد د در ۲۰۰ م^ر ۲۰۰ م

APPENDIX V

.

a

CHART	Œ	METRES	AND	FIGURES	IN	VERSES	Œ	THE	110-51
		م ر بر الم	:	* 1	7	• • • • • • •			* *

.

;