

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The blessings of God Almighty have showered abundantly over me for all my initiatives during the endeavor. The divine grace was always guiding my conscience, showing me the right path and directing me to the right person whenever and wherever needed. It was during this study period I felt the enhancement of spiritual feeling that will remain with me for the rest of life.

A good teacher is not only one who teaches, but also inspires by his abilities. Head, Department of Sociology and Dean, Faculty of Arts, The Maharaja Sayajirao University of Baroda, Vadodara, Gujarat, without whose sagacious guidance, constructive criticism, ceaseless efforts, immense encouragement and valuable suggestions, this study would not have been completed. It's really a proud privilege to work under his patronage and to be his student. I would be failing in my duties if I don't mention my gratitude to my teacher Mrs. Ragini Shah who also kept on motivating me and the Protection officer Sulekhaben Narmada Bhavan who granted me permission to get a list of all registered cases and even took interest in my work and shared her own experiences. I thank all the colleagues and well wishers for their direct or indirect support, intellectually and emotionally.

Finally, I am thankful to my guide without whose guidance and motivation I wouldn't have completed my research. My parents, my sister and my husband who have always motivated me to pursue research that has resulted in the completion of the work.
