

Table of contents

Contents

List of Figures and Graphs

i

List of Tables

iii

Chapter 1

Introduction	1
1.1 HIV/AIDS, Global picture	2
1.2 Rationale of the study	6
1.3 Theoretical framework	7
1.4 Conceptual framework	18
1.5 Psychosocial intervention models for people living with HIV/AIDS	19
1.6 Treatment and therapies for HIV and dermatitis	30
1.7 Hypnotherapy as an adjunct therapy	32
1.8 Dermatitis	48
1.9 Hypnotherapy as a treatment for skin diseases	52
1.10 Issues related to HIV/AIDS	53
1.11 Psychosocial correlates	57
1.12 Objectives of the study	71
1.13 Hypothetical framework to diagrammatically represent the research postulates	73
1.14 Research design	73
1.15 Hypotheses	75

Chapter 2

2. Methodology	84
2.1 Sample	84
2.1.1 Sampling	84
2.1.2 Criteria for selection of sample	85
2.1.3 General characteristics of sample	86
2.2 Tools and measures	92
Section A: Demographic information	93
Section B: Information about clinical parameters	93
Section C: Information about psychosocial parameters	94
2.3 Procedure	110

Chapter 3

3. Results and analysis	125
3.1 Self confidence	125
3.2 Subjective well – being	129
3.3 Adjustment	162
3.4 Anxiety	180
3.5 Multidimensional health locus of control	186
3.6 Sensation seeking	196
3.7 Coping skills	211
3.8 Depression	256
3.9 Subjective vitality	259
3.10 Quality of life	262
3.11 Qualitative analysis of symptom checklist	288

Chapter 4

4. Discussion	295
4.1 Effect of hypnotherapy on self – confidence	297
4.2 Effect of hypnotherapy on subjective well – being	297
4.3 Effect of hypnotherapy on adjustment	299
4.4 Effect of hypnotherapy on anxiety	300
4.5 Effect of hypnotherapy on multidimensional health locus of control	301
4.6 Effect of hypnotherapy on sensation seeking	302
4.7 Effect of hypnotherapy on coping skills	303
4.8 Effect of hypnotherapy on depression	305
4.9 Effect of hypnotherapy on subjective vitality	305
4.10 Effect of hypnotherapy on Quality of life	306
4.11 Effect of hypnotherapy on symptom alleviation	307
4.12 Major findings	308
4.13 Limitations	310
4.14 Implications	310
4.15 Recommendations and suggestions for further Research	311
4.16 Conclusion	312

5. References	314
6. Annexure	363
Annexure I
Annexure II
Annexure III
Annexure IV	