

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

This acknowledgment is not merely a formal thanks note; it is the best way I could attempt to convey my sincere gratitude and respect for those who have been indispensable in completing my Ph.D.

First of all, I would like to express my profound veneration and a deep sense of gratitude to my research guide Dr. Renu Sharma (retired Associate Professor) at the Department of Psychology, for instilling the confidence in me through her inspirational words and providing me with invaluable comments and criticism on many issues. Her dynamism, vision, sincerity and motivation have deeply inspired me. She guided me wisely and patiently on every step of research. She always listened to my ideas, gave me the freedom to work and encouraged to explore more. I will always be indebted to her for constantly rendering timely advice and sparing valuable time as and when required. I can remember many times when I felt discouraged and unsure of the intrinsic worth of my own work. It was her who always motivated me through the tough times.

I am also grateful to the Dr. Rashmin Sompura, Head of the Department and Dr. Urmi Biswas for their encouragement and helping me doing statistical analysis of the doctoral research. I extend my sincere thanks to all the faculty members and non-teaching staff (Mr. Pareshbhai Masaria, Ms. Neela Rana and Rajeshbhai), for their support and guidance in all the formalities during the entire research. I am proud to be a student of this Department.

I further extend my personal gratitude to the District Education Office staff for the support in data collection. I also thank all the experts, principals, teachers, students and parents for giving their valuable time and allowing me to gather data.

REGULARITY IN SCHOOL AND COGNITIVE FUNCTIONS

I also thank Dr. Apurvakumar Pandya for his valuable guidance and advice for strengthening argument in the thesis and enhancing scientific writing, which were timely and very helpful. I am extremely grateful to Mr. Harendra Parmar who helped me in writing thesis, motivated me time and again for completion of the thesis.

I would also like to express special thanks to my parents, my sister, brother-in-law and my in-laws to provide me with moral support, which I needed throughout the tough journey of doctoral research. I am immensely thankful for my caring and supportive husband Rohit Mishra. He always encouraged and helped me to push my limits to complete research. Without his support, it was impossible to complete this work. I also thank my little son Adarshh for being a part of my life.

Last, but not the least, I am grateful to the Almighty God for the kind blessings which helped me to carry out the work without any difficulty.

Prajakta Sarpotdar

Department of Psychology
Faculty of Education and Psychology
The Maharaja Sayajirao University of Baroda
Vadodara, Gujarat