

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

For writing a good thesis one needs a good guide. I have been lucky in having Dr. I.D. Bhatt, Reader, Department of Psychology, M.S. University, Baroda, as my guide, who has not only given me his valuable guidance but also encouraged me throughout my research work. His guidance has been a constant source of inspiration which helped me to complete this thesis successfully. I express my gratitude towards him.

I also express my indebtedness to Dr. Bimla Parimu, Reader, Department of Psychology, M.S. University, Baroda, whose constant and meticulous help has enormously helped me during my research work. I assure her I shall always be inspired by her graciousness.

My sincere gratitude too, to Dr. Mario Xavier, Reader, Department of Psychology, M.S. University, Baroda, for taking out time in helping me solve the puzzles of statistics.

Thanks, also, to the office staff of the Department, for all the timely help.

I am highly grateful to the Principals of the Schools who provided me with the facilities for data collection. Thanks also to all those students, parents and teachers, who participated in this study.

Special thanks to Mr. Atte for providing me with the right man to type out my thesis without which it could not have been completed.

Thanks to Raju Joseph, my typist, for doing a good job of the typing.

Special thanks too, to Mr. Dixit for providing me the facilities to get my inventories typed without which my work couldn't have been started.

Heartfelt thanks to my aunts, uncles and dear cousins, stationed in Baroda, for their constant encouragement and support without which this thesis wouldn't have been possible.

Last of all but most important, a very special heartfelt thanks to my dear parents and my dear sister for putting up with me and bearing my mood variations with utmost patience and always making me believe that I could do it.
