ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I sincerely wish to thank my guide, Dr. Bimla Parimu, Reader, Department of Psychology, M.S. University, Baroda, for her valuable help, guidance and encouragement through all stages of my research work.

My sincere gratitude, too, to Dr. Mario Xavier and Prof. N. S. Pathak for making time in helping me with my statistics.

Thanks, also, to the office staff of the Department, with special thanks to Jaggubhai, for all his timely help.

I am grateful to the Principals of the schools who provided me with the facilities for data collection. Thanks are also due to all those teachers, parents and students who participated in this study.

Thanks to Manish, my typist, for doing a good job of the typing.

Special thanks to Maulin, for solving the mysteries of the computer.

To all my friends out there, many, many thanks for encouraging me and egging me on every step of the way.

And last, but most important of all, a very special thank you, from the bottom of my heart, to my parents and my sister for putting up with me for all of these years, and believing that I could do it.
