

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

As I offer this work in its present form I wish to express my indebtedness and gratitude to all those who contributed towards transforming some of my vague hunches and curiosities into a theoretical problem.

I offer my deep sense of gratitude to Professor A.S. Patel, Head and Dean, Department of Psychology, Faculty of Education and Psychology, M.S. University of Baroda, Baroda. It was indeed a pleasant experience to work under his creative and scholastic guidance.

It was my privilege to work under Dr. (Miss) Manjuli Gon, Reader, Department of Psychology, Baroda. Dr. Manjuli Gon, opened new horizons in my academic life, and sowed the seeds of present work. It was unfortunate that I could not complete my work under her guidance.

It is indeed a pleasure to record the help rendered by outstanding personalities in the field. I am extremely grateful to William J. McGuire, O. J. Harvey, Milton J. Rosenberg, David C. Glass, Robert B. Zajonc, and James T. Tedeschi for providing reprints of their works and valuable guidance. I am equally thankful to Shri D. N. Sansanwal and Shri A. N. Mishra and other colleagues who have helped me constantly.

I am specially thankful to all those who participated in experimental sessions, and to U.G.C. for providing financial help as Junior Research Fellowship.

I am also thankful to my family members, Ku.Shanti Masand and Ku.Sabiha Mehdi for their never ending encouragement and moral support.

Baroda,
