

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I wish to express my sincere gratitude to my guide Professor N. S. Pathak, Head, Department of Psychology, Faculty of Education and Psychology, M. S. University of Baroda, Baroda, for his encouragement, valuable guidance and continuous help at all stages of my research work.

I am grateful to those Principals of the schools and colleges in Baroda who have provided me with the facilities for data collection. I owe a debt to all those students who participated in the study as subjects and enabled me to carry out this study.

My thanks are also due to all my friends and colleagues who have helped me in different ways.

I am deeply grateful to my parents and my family members for their constant inspiration and support.

Finally, I thank Mrs. S. S. Padhye, CASE Librarian for all her help and Mr. P. B. Parikh for typing the manuscript on time.
