Lone Traveller. ✓

Go slow, slow and slow
 For Haste makes waste,
~~Have~~ ~~not~~ ~~till~~
 Be Brave and Bold.
 Face the Age
 Till your goal is reached.
 May be you are a lone traveller
 But life is always great Enjoy the path you have chosen for you which may not be beneficial to you.

Be happy and contented
For what is presented
This nature is wonderful
For Him we are grateful
For giving this bounties for ever.

Get most of life
Leave not a chance
Find pleasure in pain
This world is there
For you and others
Enjoy every moment of it.

Don't feel sorry
For you are alone
For ~~to~~ all of ~~us~~ us are lone travellers
In this journey of life

Sailing on the Sea of Life

Days sail by,
Then months and years,
And here I lie,
With toil and Tears,
Is this all in store for me?
Today, and for eternity?
Sailing on the sea of life,
✓ O Lord, this is a daily strife!

MOMENTS

(On the lonely eve, when the sea was calm

I was sitting alone
 on the sandy shore.

A ripple in the waters surprised me a lot -

I lift my eyelids to see if the sea had followed what I was brooding about.

Happy, I was at heart,

that the waves understood me,
 the gloom that others didn't vanished on its own!

Suddenly inside me the stormy winds came.

I dusted my sandy feet, and,

got ready to go, and for while,

threw a peaceful glance around,

Lo! it was just the little boat-sailing ^{with} ~~when~~ the sun going low-that caused all the ripple!

✓ Those moments still live though the rippling no longer!!

You ask me to paddle slowly?
But

Paddle slowly? ✓

You ask me to paddle slowly?

But what happens if I sink in the middle?
And lose out the race,
before arriving at the shore?

And there would lie my dreams and me at the cold wet bed,
And change with time to a skeleton.

- Eyes gashed out by creatures of water and worms that feed on my flesh.

Let me paddle not only with oars
Give me the propellers too,
So when I reach the shores
I will in time's eternity sit and gaze at the life ~~from~~ for. for. you.

- ① Paddle slowly?
- ② The haste.
- ③ Race to destination.
- ④

The poem has no inner meaning and social implications than what meets the eye.

The Magic of Creation

It was somewhere in nineteen forty-nine,
That I heard sweet music playing, "You are Mine."
I came out from my cocoon warm,
That for nine months, my mother nurtured all along,
The tiny eyes that quickly blinked,
As the sun's rays on me softly winked
Beholding creation in its glory
And so I write for you my story.

My childhood was serene and calm,
Love unconditional a soothing balm
For when things didn't always turn out right,
Mother's smile and caress were my delight.
Daddy's pet daughter - who wouldn't be
Being the eldest, they knew why!
And as the years glided by,
My zest for music surfaced high

So for you, this song I sing
As I row my boat, to meet my King.
The Lord of Heaven and earth is He,
He made Creation, you and me
The golden waters, the imposing hills,
Trees strong and tall give you a thrill
And as the soft white clouds go by,
He has a message for you and I;

"Life's young, and full of splendour,
To beauty's Creator your heart surrender,
And as you walk with open eyes,
And hear mankind's sorrowing cries,
Tell them, there's Someone up above
Who wants to soothe them with His love,
Who understands their suffering heart,
And will lead them along the right path."

"So rise! Ambassadors of mine,
Over seas, and hills and ~~into deep mountains~~ ^{pathways entwined}
Spread my message of love and cheer,
That man no more will live in fear,
But with courage, strength and hope secure,
Will slowly paddle life's seas, and thus procure
The happiness, joy, and peace galore,
That creation will bring him when he crosses life's shore."

" To the Unknown Banks "

" At the dusk of my life, alone I paddle
All my life, I've been up on the saddle.
Everyone, my foes and friends, with and kin took me for a ride
There was none ever who took my side
Yet everything today, within me is so calm Everything around me is serene, as I row my boat and it enacts as a balm,
To my torn heart; and to the unknown banks
I depart. "

We asked each other,
 We promised each other.
 To come back here,
 By the side of this river —
 Where most of the time
 Happy we find, ✓
 And someone told us to wait;
 No body listened, but the two trees
 Where played the evening breeze,
 Taking the message to relate.

Days are come, Days are out Alone, in boat on the water float,
Once we had been here,
To tell the mystery of our religion;
Now I don't know where you are
And where has gone my creation.

Good

Once my eyes beheld a cartoon from "Punch"
 It depicted MR Rat stepping on the threshold mat declaring to MRS Rat -
 "I'm sick of this human race."

And this set me thinking
 About the way we are sinking
 Into a career of nothingness
 But pretending otherwise
 We never stop to pause to ponder over the cause of this ways of this beautiful world
 For we think "time has value"
 But never do we realise that "time is irrevocable"

There's much to be gained if we only stopped to reason

Moments Alone

It was calm, it was still,
I felt the delight within me build.

The sky was blue, the sky was grey -
The heaven didn't seem so far away.

The ~~lake~~ ^{lake} was calm and blue;
But it reflected the sun's rays too.

The sun was setting slowly now -
Behind the trees and the boughs.

The solitary scene took my breath away,
Especially when I saw a man paddling ~~slowly~~ in the lake

The green, the blue, the orange & yellow - Gave in me a sense of wonder.

God's creation, which I saw & marvelled.

Man was just a part of it.

He followed along the path that nature led.

The beauty of nature, and the beauty of life
Are really worth a lot of our time.

"The boat"

Life -
 A vast lake - stretching from one end to eternity -
 Where birth is the first ray of the morning sun.

Life -
 A boat -
 Paddling from the shore
 In search of ~~the~~ infinity...

The majestic

Silence

The calm lake

The boat adrift

The snow capped peaks . . .

An unbearable majesty - an azure serenity.

Time ..

Stands still,

Waiting for?

Slow, steady and sure

We travel from life to death and life -

But,

In between -

Savour the scents of life slowly,

Live it

And breathe it

And dream it -

For it comes but once. ✓

x - x

Life -

A journey -

from birth to death, and beyond.

I am the man

In the boat -

But where do I row?

In the distance -

towards the peaks - of what?

of excellence,

or ~~and~~ ecstasy

I often wonder -

Where will life lead me?

Where do all of us go?

To get the most ^{out} of life,

paddle slowly.

Jay in distress

Once again, I took a look at the serene beauty.
The shadow of the trees fell still on the lake in silent sympathy.

The sun shedding his pale gloomy colour watching the fate of man and moaning a deep sigh
The ripples of the water against the bank, now and then,

broke the silence with a shrill cry.

Alas! the creator hears it not.

The pregnant clouds muttering, rumbling, grumbling to shake him out of the slumber

In vain!

I watch the scene with a tearful look.
In distress, the nature ^{still} remains a friend.

SOMETIMES I WISH IT COULD HAVE BEEN ALL DIFFERENT.

Sometimes I wish it could have been
all different,
The quietness of the evening
The stillness of the lake
The darkness of your eyes.
I can remember you though I've tried so hard to forget I've tried for so long and through so many years.

But you're still there.
A stranger even now
On the periphery of my dreams
On the shore of my imagination
On the tide of my ecstasy
And the dawning of my day.
Sometimes I wish it could have been
all different.

~~There~~ ~~nothing~~ ~~stays~~ ~~on~~

I never knew you in all those moments.
Not a little in spite of the hours
And the years flew by but Nothing touched you.
There was no morning to your darkness,
No fire in your depths
Only a strange stillness
Like a tide that slowly ebbs
Sometimes I wish it could have been
all different.

Tranquility , Gloomy of the Sunset

Slowly and slowly the sun sets in the west Nature with the infant's zest is slowly coming to take rest,
 the retreating light falling on the lake water makes it glitter.

The trees are welcoming back home the birds after and the air is filled with their twitter,

On the lake as I paddle towards the shore
 My mind gets filled with tranquility and peace,

And I pray silently to the Lord A to help me get in life what I most long for.

② I look towards the sky in awe
To admire the paintings and beauty Nature has in store,
Surely no painter could have brushed the sky with so vivid coloured as he.
No master photographer could have exhibited such a show of contrast explicitly,
Only He the greatest of all Times ~~and~~ can pour so much happiness into our lives,
And bequeath the treasures he had in store,
For us to Bask in his glory,
And pleadingly await for more.

③ With his help as Nature makes such a beautiful show,
And the day comes to an end with promises for more,
we too can finish our mission in life
And make as splendid an exit, P.D.
to make ~~as~~ ourselves Eternal in this world and pass our wealth to the world to exist.

The Sun .

Love.

The yellow moon - peeping from the orange cloud spies upon two young people nestling closely.

It wonders - what is it that makes them so happy - while others are grumbling & grunting.
What makes these two mortal
see the world so happily?

Till next where ever in my daily spying -

I have found humans doing all kinds of work with grumbling, disgust and weariness

But never have I seen anyone so happy?

The little bird flying near the moon,

looks upon her troubled face and asks ~~how~~ she in her feeble voice:

'Why Diana are you so sad?'

Diana with a start is called out from her ~~dreams~~ spying...
She says it ~~simple~~ - ~~can't~~ Can't you see those two people looking strange.

I ~~lost~~ remember I had seen this look ~~on~~ a long while ago when ~~both~~ the parents of mankind had not been expelled from Heaven.

But now

I wonder what makes the happy?

The little bird - in a ~~very~~ merry chirp says: 'Worry not, dear moon, These people have caught the the bug of love & will never be same as before.'

The love which ^{father} God had invented

These people are borrowing to make their lives happier.

← 'The river of life' P. 21 A

The river of life, so swift so slow, with twists and turns and hides, will lead you on and on and on, A
 No matter where you want to go.
 There's only one thing I would like to say,
 No matter how the river runs and aways,
 Never be in a rush to do and say,
 Take your time and go like you way,
 Paddle slowly, you have all the day:
 For, the pace though slow and journey small,
 ✓ A thing well done is done for all.

Learn to Live ✓

Some say life is long, very long
Its dull routine night & day, life-long

It can be so, if we are short-sighted
If we think of ~~big~~ life as a list of chores.

If only we paused for a while
And looked around, we'd observe, scenes
And situations, worth the while.

In a hurry to reach somewhere
We ~~for~~ don't notice pretty flowers ^{anywhere.}
The pressure of finishing appointed task on time, robs us of our inclination to stop and stare.

When we learn to admire and appreciate
No longer will life be such a drag.

This mad rush of our twentieth century does not promote idleness.

But to be happy with one's own self

We must stop hankering after achievements.

And soon we'll conclude, life is too for enjoyment of all. God has ^{short} provided

On and On ✓

It looks that it's just seven,
But don't you think it is a real heaven.

It is not exactly so
For, he has yet to go.

There are many hurdles ahead.
But still he has to go ahead

To cross this sea of life f.
It is not necessary to be with his wife.

He can go all alone
Without being get flown.

He has to go on

Pastorale Slavery

*The morning alarm goes off,
 I rush to get ready
 To reach my office on time,
 I hurry*

*To shut off the voice nagging my mind
 - "A useless life, an ugly life a monotonous life."*

Yes, that is my life. but I don't admit it.

*The clock leads me, like the blindman
 On the street, who is Led by his son.
 The hands of the clock
 And me*

My life is tensed and tight.
Like the coiled spring in the clock

Yesterday night it had rained
The raindrops being precariously
On to the rose petals Miniature rainbows shone in
The multifaceted raindrops
So beautiful!

But I missed the sight as I had to catch the 8.15 bus.

I feel like ~~as if~~ ^{if} I'm missing so much
As if I'm travelling in a super sonic boat
I have no time to look around,

The mountains, streams and trees
All beckon me.

I hear the call, but ignore it
I have no time for them.

I cannot change my life
But I know
To get the most out of life
Paddle slowly!

How to Live Life to its Lees ✓

To get the most of life, proceed slowly
Or somewhere on the way

You may miss a flower, a person or a thought
That would have changed your life, your philosophy

We have been told haste makes waste
And whatever we do we should do well.

Poets of long ago and now
Could write and create because they were not in haste

Our sages said leisure and peace

Can attribute towards a spiritual uplift

And that nothing can be wrought without His will,
So who can dispute the wisdom to proceed slowly?

THE RIDE ✓

The ~~waves~~ gentle waves lapped the sides
As I twisted my paddle with the tide
The conflict in my mind
Was echoed in the ripples
That circled me
And almost made me blind.

I paused, thought and prayed
In a moment, it disappeared
All I beheld, was the glory
The peace, the tranquillity
Of the gentle waves

My Gentle Friend. (Surprise Preacher)
The Sun was shining so bright

The Sky was twinkling with the rays of the sun.

By looking at the boat man

I said to myself - I should hurry soon

To get in the boat otherwise, he will slip away.

I got in the boat with a bundle of thoughts in my heart.

When the boat man moved the boat systematically with a more on his lips
O! to my surprise I forgot all my worries and cares
Cares of my life.

The water - a life giving agent had many stories tell me.

I listened very carefully every bit what she said.

Yes she whispered that in my being.

Slow and Steadily will come the race.

Yes the Song the Silver water whispered in my heart

Is a lasting systematic music in my being.

THERE IS ALWAYS HOPE. ✓

Another day dawns,
The lake is quiet and calm,
Early rays shimmer on the water
The soft touch of the cars
Sends the water rippling along
As I paddle my boat slowly
Across the lake.

A sense of curiosity creeps within me.
And I wonder - will this new day bring new sorrows?
Will the rays brighten my path?
Or will the sun set again without sharing its light?

Birds twitter and leave their nests,
The sky slowly turns a bright blue, leaves of the tree move gently in the wind,

Suddenly, I paddle back fast.
Hope, yes this day brings hope!
I return eager to face life.
A new day "has" dawned!

1. - A JOURNEY ✓

I paddle across the water, calm, cool, carefree.
At the onset of dawn,
To reach the other end,
To reach few miles away.

Life is a journey,
One has to reach the end,
But then how well I paddle?
Determines my ultimate end.

I paddle slowly!

Sy, M Cause I paddle my life and not just the ivories!

I paddle very slowly
on this calm and cool water,
But there are strong and forceful currents which prevent my steady motion.

Life has so many problems,
but they are just the currents,
Obstacles to be overcome,
To reach the zone of calmness,
a zone of joy and happiness.
A happy smooth sailing.

ALONE WITH NONE

Alone with none, but Thee my God
Allow me to stay at the end of this day
Aside I keep all my cares and worries
Along with you when I walk the path.

Away I have come from my home to here
Asleep in the eve of this passing day
Achieving what I can, with your grace
Against your will I don't want to go

Arise, my friends, who keep company with me
Across we will go, not to recall the past Affecting changes in our own self first Abide and decide together for tomorrow.

Alas! the time is passing fast
Active we will be for the future
Agone are those days when we surrendered Accused to you what this day brought.

LIFE'S JOURNEY ✓

When will I reach the end of the shore?
I really don't know.
What lies for me beyond the street,
Is a real mystery!

Whether I reach the shore or not
I will not despair,
Cause I know, if I am cautious and slow
I will make it to the shore.

As the sun rises and sets and there is change in days, and months and seasons
The same will be with my own life,
For various seasons.

As man will toil and sweat in the heat of the sun
Or some may lay under the shade of the trees, Yet life will go on and on
From morn to night and night to morn.

What I may encounter on life's journey will be different from friends and enemies Cause each life's journey is a special one
Trying to reach the end in one's own life carriage.

Will Love Live Long. ✓

Once along the country side, there was a beautiful beach. The waters were still and clear and the sand was like glittering gold. The sky was clear with a few birds fluttering their wings.

Every summer the children of that place would come and play in the sands & in the water. There was something that attracted them to that shore. Even adults ~~also~~ were attracted, for ~~the~~ each sensed peace and love. People would stand for hours and watch the sun rise and set, all arrayed in its sinic beauty.

There was a young boy Tim who was in college. A smart, brave young lad who was always willing to help. He was very fortunate, for he had all the comforts of life. But one thing always bothered him was, "why ~~have~~ ^{do} some people have to suffer?" One day he went for a social gathering, but he was restless and the question kept coming back to him. Suddenly he saw a pretty girl sitting near a window and looking out as if she was 'bird watching'. Tim grew very curious, for he wondered why she was sitting all alone while the others ~~came~~ ^{came} and went. He went up to her and asked her, her name. She answered after a short while, looking up and down at Tim. Finally she said "my name is Jane." He sat down besides her and spoke to her. In the midst of his conversation, she asked him, "Did you ever fall in love or experience love?" Tim was taken aback because, he knew that her mind was thinking and that she paid the attention to him. With a puzzle look on his face he asked her, "why do you ask me so?" She replied "there is so much of peace and love in your eyes." With a shy look about him he said, yes.

Tim then asked her what she was doing and what in particular she had said. Jane replied, "I am just in my first year of college. I am sad because people don't know the true meaning of love or may be I don't know. Tim knew at once that she was confused. ~~the~~ Jane went on talking because she felt a sudden sense of belonging and happiness she told Tim that she was an orphan and that she never experienced love from someone whom she could call her own.

The Canoe of Life ✓

A silver streak in an azure sky,
Just the trees, the river & I,
Hazy mountains nearby,
It's a day I've been waiting for.

There I sit in soulful serenity
~~Gazing at life~~
Thinking of life and all that it has in store for me - Kitty,
The canoe glides silently.
I am left in little doubt.

That God made this world & its beauty,
Its hills, valleys and nitty gritty.
Are we to rush around like we do in the city?
Or sit around admiring Nature's brutty.

Life is a ditty,
And it would be a pity,
If we were to live it hastily.
Then, to get the most out of life, paddle slowly.

Life

Life is a Boat, on which we sail,
 Day by day and night by night; 1)

Life is beautiful, as the pure.
 Streams flowing in its Lure

Life is Full of Joys and Sorrow.
 enjoy it and face it bravo;

Life is a Stage where we are Actors who act and part.

Life is a stage where the curtains fall and rise, to make us salute to the audiences.

Life is a stage, where we sometimes

"Nature is Supreme"

The nature is kind, which surrounds me,
 The love of it, is always around me,
 No hustle and bustle of man made noise,
 The nature always tends to give the voice.
 The water of nature, helps my mind to settle down,
 As the human artificiality increases, the nature's beauty is gone
 I sincerely pray, to keep me float,
 With two oars in hand, of my lovely boat.

Near the Sea

Cal.

The sun was setting and the scenery was very beautiful. Two of them came near the seaside and they played near the sea shore. Both made different things out of sea sand.

Suddenly they saw that the sun dropped down in the sea. They were both amazed at this scene. The sea gulls were flying and the different types of birds were flying in the sky which made them think of romantic ideas. Then they thought the natural beauty is so nice and often they came near the seaside.

The nature's beauty is such a beauty that it charms all people very quickly - and it is God given all mighty beauty. We get or find so many things under the sea.

~~Wish~~ "Hope for a brighter future"

"Iry, in this very dawn, when you and I ^{are} here in such a calm, quite weather, the unbounded sea stretched before us, the red sun is scattering his red beam over the sky from that blue horizon and the morning birds sing aloud, I feel the same aching in heart which stimulated Keats to say, '... for many times, ✓

I have been half in love with careful death".
 "yes" replied Iry, "there is none but thinks such. Before such a scene, everyone, what, in words of Carlyle, the poet in a person, works within him. Can you recollect the poem which we have read in our early days. The poet ^{imagined} ~~comprised~~ this red glow to be the vermilion on the forehead of a vivacious young lady.

Then Avin fixes his eyes on the sea. The small waves are rising with pearl like-foams on its bosom. Seagulls are screaming. But the charming beauty, the sweet harmony created by the songs of the birds, the screaming of the seagulls, the roaring sound of the sea, overwhelms a man. Whenever we lost in beauty, it we start running after it which, in its turn, runs away and, sometimes after it evades and we are left alone. ~~Avin, whatever romantic~~ He also feels a pathos. He has come to Digha on a tour. The rapturing face of Iry, reminds another face, his sister Panna, another face, it is his mother's, ~~and then~~ she is also of, almost similar age of Iry. She has to live in a country. Her demands are very common, compared to those of a city girl like Iry. But yet those are her dearest. This time when he came from home, she requested him to ~~like~~ buy a fine 'Tantuja sari'. His father, brother, mother, sister - all are look for his job. They are passing his days in hopes. But so long, with his qualification of MA. he goes to school after school for teachership, but in vain.

'But, Iry, this romanticism is a self ridicule to me' says Avin ~~at~~ abruptly to Iry. 'A young man who can not earn money, can not maintain his family, how ~~he~~ ~~does~~ he dares to get into such fascination.'

'Why are you so impatient, Avin? wait and go on trying and you will succeed,' Iry replies, with a pressure on his hand.

'Ha, Ha, ha, Iry, you are very ignorant of the practical. I know what is about a service.'

Love is eternal

It was the time when the sun was descending. Atanu was waiting for his lover Sujatā. She was a beautiful lady. Then Atanu was the student of B.A 1st year and Sujatā was B.A 1st year when they come closer to each other. Atanu was rather poor than Sujatā. Atanu's father was an employer of W.B Govt. He was posted at Writers Building but Sujatā's father was a director of a renowned private company.

Every day after the ending of their class. They met with each other on that very spot. Atanu was curiously waiting for Sujatā. He himself said "Why Sujatā is late today? What's happened?" Suddenly he noticed that Sujatā was coming, Atanu realised that something would be happened. Sujatā came and started crying. Atanu could not able to understand why she is crying. He asked her "Why are you crying, what happened?" Sujatā said, "Our relation is disclosed to my father and he severely oppose against it. He and he threatened her to stop the relation with Atanu."

Atanu realised all this. The main cause ~~the~~ money. Because Sujata's family ~~was~~ wealthy but they ~~were~~ ^{were} poor. It is ~~such~~ quite natural that Sujata's father would not tolerate such a poor boy. He had ~~a~~ great expectation about his daughter. Atanu tried to convince Sujata that her father is right, Every father has the same expectation. But Sujata was not ready to understand the situation. She loved Atanu very much. That's why she could not leave him. She embraced Atanu and said, "I can leave my parents but I can't leave you." I want to stay with you forever, love is precious than everything in my life and it is eternal.

The man in the boat. is looked sad.

because of loneliness. & feel -

No one is there to give him company.
neither birds nor wind.

He is in company of water. and seeing sun. The trees are quiet and birds are quite too:

He is fed of all this thing -

-- It seems he is running away from them.

Sun rise

I like the beauty of the nature
when Sun comes to meet us
we all feel happy to meet him.

Leaves & fruits become happy waves are moving slowly.
we all feel happy to meet him.

Boatman is boating slowly.
Birds started to fly with happy
we all feel happy to meet him.

1) Happy Sun.

2) The Sun.
