

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I wish to express my appreciation and thanks to all the friends who have helped me directly or indirectly during the course of this study.

I am extremely grateful to Sri M.V. Rajagopal, Retired Vice-Chancellor, Jawaharlal Nehru Technological University, Hyderabad for being the real source of inspiration for me in the pursuit of knowledge, for enlightening me on a number of educational matters in general and for his constructive criticism of earlier drafts of this work in particular.

I am very grateful indeed to my guiding teacher Dr.(Smt.) S.J. Mehta for her untiring and painstaking efforts in helping me to finish this work. To her I am highly obliged particularly for the free and frank discussions she was kind enough to allow me to have with her in getting some of the crucial points clarified. Also, I do not know how to thank her for sparing a lot of her precious time for me at my convenience.

My very sincere thanks are due particularly to Dr.D.B. Desai, Head, Department of Education and Centre for Advanced Studies in Education for my registration in this University and for his continuous support thereafter. I am also thankful to Prof. M.S. Yadav, CASE for the many useful suggestions I received from him.

I will be failing in my duty if I don't express my deep-felt gratitude to Sri V. Satyanarayana Murty Lecturer, State Council of Educational Research & Training, Andhra Pradesh for his continuous help and guidance in completing this work. I am highly obliged to him.

Finally, I thank Sri I. Krishna Murty for typing the manuscript neatly and quickly.

September, 1982

I.V. Radhakrishna Murthy